MEASURE AIMED AT 'BUG' PLAYERS VOTED BY COUNCIL

Law Makes Patrons Subject to Fine, Imprisonment; Suspected Lottery Cars May Be Seized.

City council yesterday unanimously passed a bill making players of the lottery subject to fine and imprisonment, and at the same time moved to impound automobiles engaged in the "bug" racket.

Mayor Hartsfield is expected to sign the measure, into law today, and police will proceed against those who purchase tickets for the first time.

Question Authority.

The measure was passed in the face of an opinion by City Attorney Jack C. Savage that the city probably has not the authority to pass such legislation, but Savage urged the council to take action and let the legal department of the city wrestle with the courts.

Possession of a ticket is prima facie evidence that the person on whom it is found is guilty of buying it, under the ordinance. Police may seize any automobile engaged in or suspected of being engaged in the lottery racket from a period of from 10 to 30 days, while they check up on the registration of the car.

Objections Removed.

Reversing itself, the council passed the revised measure two weeks after it had declined to approve it. The objectionable feature of the original paper, a provision making it an offense to give anything away and for any purpose, was eliminated from the redrafted proposal, which was prepared by Solicitor General John A. Boykin.

Councilman J. Allen Couch, third ward, who fought the original measure, took the floor yesterday to say that with the gift clause eliminated, he would vote for it. Opponents of the original ordinance contended that it would

Gallogly Wins First Round As Hearing Opens Heatedly

Arnall's Contentions Brushed Aside as Governor Decides To Take Up All Phases; Day Marked by Sharp Clashes Between Opposing Counsel.

By FRANK DRAKE,
Staff Correspondent.

AUSTIN, Texas, Oct. 16.—Governor W. Lee O'Daniel yielded today to pleas of Dick Gallogly's Texas lawyers that he brush aside Georgia's legal claims on the fugitive to go into the prisoner's claims of "merit," as arguments on the extradition plea got under way amid a series of sharp clashes between opposing counsel.

Governor O'Daniel's decision to take up all phases of the case was made despite a plea of Attorney General Ellis Arnall, of Georgia, that the only points for legal consideration were whether the 30-year-old fugitive was a convict and a fugitive, and whether extradition papers were in order.

Immediately following Governor O'Daniel's action, Attorney General Arnall requested Solicitor General John A. Boykin, of Fulton county, to send transcripts of Gallogly's two trials and three clemency hearings.

Arnall said Boykin's office told him the wanted transcripts would be air mailed at once. Arnall added they would be turned over to Governor O'Daniel immediately upon their arrival here.

Gallogly's attorneys announced that their testimony will try to show the life-terminer was "fraudulently induced" to plead guilty to a murder he did not commit and, despite representations he would be released for good behavior, had been "buried in prison for 11 years."

State Senator Jesse Martin, of Fort Worth, chief counsel for Gallogly, described his client as a "fugitive from injustice."

Attorneys for Gallogly were apparently building their case upon claims the fugitive had been mis-

TANKS CLEAR PATH FOR GERMANS INTO VILLAGE OF APACH

Poilus Counter-Attack and Regain Town; Stiffest Fighting to Date on Western Front Reported

By TAYLOR HENRY.

PARIS, Oct. 16.—(AP)—Waves of Nazi troops in field gray today launched a long-awaited attack in force against French positions on the northern flank of the western front, drove the French out of the German territory at one point and although thrown back, still held a precarious foothold on French soil for the first time since the European war began.

A French communique acknowledged tonight that the Germans fought their way into the French village of Apach before they were thrown back by a French counter-attack.

Fight All Day.

The fighting lasted all day and as night fell the Germans apparently still were holding the heights of Schneberg north of Apach on western slopes that reach into France.

Heavy French guns pounded German lines for a hundred miles along the northern flank of the western front.

The 9:05 p. m. (2:05 p. m. Atlanta time) communique of the French high command said merely that the Germans had withdrawn "to the north of Apach" after penetrating the village.

Four-Mile Front.

Although the German attack covered a front of four miles, the main force of the blow was delivered at the junction of the French - German - Luxembourg frontiers on the extreme northern flank of the western front.

Here the French established positions during the first month of the war to prevent the Germans from driving through neutral Luxembourg.

Target of German bombers yesterday in their boldest raid since war began, the Firth of Forth bridge still stands near Edinburgh, Scotland. One raiding plane reportedly zoomed

SOVIET PROPOSALS STUDIED BY FINNS

Government Hopes for Solution, But Doesn't Relax Defense Measures.

By The Associated Press.

The Finnish government yesterday studied undisclosed Soviet Russian proposals brought back by its mission to Moscow and a spokesman in Helsinki said later, "We remain calm and believe a solution can be found."

There was no evidence of slackening in defense measures, however, and it was announced more air raid drills were planned shortly. These steps were described by the Finnish government as a precaution against possible violation of "our independence and neutrality."

Serious Questions.

"The Russian demands present serious questions," the spokesman said, "but a practical solution can be found, in our opinion, if both sides show good will. We are trying so far as possible to understand the proposals made by the Soviet and find a way to a peaceful solution."

(Meanwhile, Lithuanian troops crossed the border yesterday and began occupying territory in the region of Wilno. The city of Wilno is scheduled to be occupied today, it was reported by the United Press.

(Wilno, former capital of Lithuania seized by Poles after the World War, was in that portion of Poland occupied by Russia when the Soviet and Germany partitioned that country. When the recent Russian-Lithuanian mutual aid pact was signed, one of its provisions returned to Lithuania Wilno and vicinity.)

The Turkish cabinet was reported last night to have sent new and final instructions to its Moscow delegation which, political circles declared, might lead to a quick conclusion of the lengthy Kremlin conversations and possibly a Russian-Turkish pact.

Cabinet Meets.

The cabinet met in special session while Turkey was said to be making "feverish" military preparations on reports that Russia was massing troops in the Caucasus on the borders of Turkey and Iran.

(Tass, the official Russian news agency, was quoted by

Nazis Launch Lightning War On Britain With Planes, Subs

Link by Link, Germans Hammer at English Naval Chain Across North Sea; Reich Spirits Soar on Reports of Successful Attacks.

By M. K. WHITELEATHER.

BERLIN, Oct. 16.—(P)—Field Marshal Goering's warplanes and Grand Admiral Raeder's submarines pressed a lightning war against England today.

In a surprise attack, German bombers appeared over the Firth of Forth in Scotland and, an official announcement said, "two British cruisers were hit by bombs of heavy size."

Another official announcement declared the British battle cruiser Repulse had been torpedoed in carrying out Adolf Hitler's apparent determination to sink or disable one British warship after another until Britain gives in.

(A British announcement said but one British cruiser was hit, but admitted 35 casualties aboard three warships in the Firth of Forth. The German report of the battle cruiser Repulse being badly damaged was called an "absurd invention" by the British.)

two British pursuit planes which rose to fight off the German raiders over the Firth of Forth were shot down, but admitted two of Germany's own planes had failed to return from the raid.

(British reports said four German planes had been brought down.)

The announcement declared, however, that the attack was carried out despite heavy English defense fire.

Although a first communique said the 32,000-ton Repulse had been severely damaged and put out of commission, a corrected communique later said "the same U-boat which sank the British battleship Royal Oak torpedoed the battleship (sic) Repulse."

Thus, with no further details given, the effect of the torpedo was left open. Explaining the reason for the change in wording of the communique, authorities said that "torpedoed" to them was a stronger expression than merely "damaged" or "disabled."

They cautioned, however, that

DAMAGE REPORTED TO SOUTHAMPTON; 15 LIVES ARE LOST

British Fighting Planes Repel Attack in Force; First To Reach British Isles Since War Began.

LONDON, Oct. 16.—(AP)—Scoring the first admitted bomb hit on a British warship since the European war began, German bombers today slightly damaged the cruiser Southampton in a spectacular attack on the vital Edinburgh and Firth of Forth area of Scotland.

The British admiralty said two naval officers and 13 men were killed and 12 men were seriously injured in 35 casualties the bombers caused aboard the Southampton and two other naval ships, the cruiser Edinburgh and the destroyer Mohawk.

Four Planes Downed.

A joint communique by the air ministry and the admiralty said at least four of the 12 or 14 Nazi raiders were downed by Royal Air Force fighters and anti-aircraft batteries during a fierce battle.

(A German announcement said two British cruisers were hit by bombs.)

First Raid on Britain.

The first German air raiders to reach Britain, the bombers struck in dive attacks in the face of heavy fire from ship and shore batteries.

Bomb Glanced.

The official announcement of the attack—issued some eight hours after the fight—said the Southampton, which escorted King George and Queen Elizabeth to Canada last summer, was struck a glancing blow by a bomb.

The communique said the bow of the 9,100-ton cruiser was damaged slightly by the bomb.

Bomb splinters caused three casualties aboard the Southampton, seven on the 10,000-ton Edinburgh and 23 on the 1,870-ton Mohawk.

It was said, however, the bombardment from the air failed to inflict serious damage to any of the warships, all three being ready for the sea despite the raid.

Air raid warnings were not sounded in the area of the attack, across the Firth of Forth from

Georgia Fugitive and His Freedom Hope

EXCLUSIVE

It known that German reserves numbering between six and seven hundred thousand men and seven hundred thousand men were massed behind the Siegfried line in the area between the Moselle and Lauter rivers.

Whether today's attack must be regarded as the initial phase of the huge offensive, to which, in his public speeches, Chancellor Hitler has threatened to resort in case his peace offer should be turned down, or whether the German onslaught will be kept within bounds, time only will show.

Meanwhile, it is suspected by many that Hitler and his military advisers are for the present perhaps inclined to restrict their stakes as long as they cannot rely upon a larger measure of assistance on the part of Soviet Russia.

In that respect, some astonishment is caused here by the fact that, in recent weeks, no public mention has been made on the German side of the Ribbentrop-Molotov so-called peace declaration.

British Cruiser Bombed in Daring Nazi Air Attack

H. M. S. Southampton, launched in 1937 as the "world's fastest cruiser," was bombed yesterday by a squadron of German planes attacking the area around Edinburgh. The British admiralty said a glancing bomb damaged the bow, claimed that "at least four" of an attacking squadron of 12 to 14 planes were shot down, three by Royal Air Force fighters.

FEDERAL HOUSING EXPERTS COMING TO SCHOOL HERE

U. S. and Atlanta Authorities Will Offer Course in Management of Low-Cost Projects.

The first "training school" for housing directors will be held at the Piedmont hotel tomorrow through Saturday sponsored by the National Association of Housing Officials in conjunction with the United States Housing Authority and the Atlanta Housing Authority.

This Atlanta conference to discuss administrative and management problems arising in the federal government's low-cost housing program is the first of several regional meetings to be held throughout the nation.

Approximately 75 delegates from the 11 southeastern states, Puerto Rico and the District of Columbia are expected to attend.

Highlight of the program will be talks tomorrow night on "Housing and Peace," by Jacob Crane, deputy administrator of the USA, and on "Housing and War," by Governor Rivers. Both speeches will be broadcast over radio.

The delegates will be welcomed to Atlanta tomorrow morning by George B. Hamilton, chairman of the state housing authority, and by Mayor Hartsfield tomorrow night.

Among problems to be discussed at the conference are: Public

Mayor 'Cupid' Vetoes Thorns In Love's Path

Mayor Hartsfield turned Cupid yesterday, and Edwin L. Sterne, assistant city attorney, was "saved by a veto."

A playful council passed a resolution demanding that Sterne forego his marriage Thursday night to Miss Frances Copeland, of Valdosta, and remain in Atlanta to attend a special Thursday night session of council's finance committee.

That was too much for Atlanta's mayor. He broke out his pen, wrote "veto" across the measure, and gave it to Sterne for a keepsake. "You know that was close," Sterne said. "I'm mighty glad the mayor didn't desert me. From the looks of things most of my alleged friends have."

Delegates will be taken on a tour of inspection of Techwood Homes and the new low cost housing projects recently begun in the city.

Among prominent housing experts expected to attend the three-day conference are John Hilder, chairman of the Allevy Dwelling Authority of the District of Columbia; Colonel L. Kemper Williams, of New Orleans, president of the National Association of Housing Officials, and John P. Broome, of Washington, regional director of the United States Housing Authority.

Three Fund Drive Captains Confer on Work Ahead

Three captains in the forthcoming Community Fund drive conferred yesterday to discuss their part in the campaign. Left to right are Troy Woodbury, Jack Weinstock and Charlie Yates, who will lead teams in the drive to raise $541,403 to finance the 1940 activities of the 33 participating agencies of the Fund. The campaign will be held November 6 through 18.

250 Community Workers Ready To Begin Campaign

Review Final Organization Plans for Personally Contacting 90,000 Salaried People in Greater Atlanta in Effort To Raise $541,403.

Driving toward a $541,403 goal, approximately 250 workers in the all-important groups division reviewed final organization plans last night and prepared actively to take the field this week in an effort to raise their quota in the 17th annual Community Fund Appeal.

Faced with a goal that tops by $140,000 the total amount raised by the Community Fund in 1938, the men headed by Carl Wolf heard their leaders outline how they would go about personally contacting approximately 90,000 salaried people and wage earners in Greater Atlanta.

After the men finished a meal, (for which each worker paid his own bill), a new innovation in solicitation was presented which will be applied to employees of local manufacturing firms and other business houses where feasible.

Minute-a-Day Plan. Built around a general theme of "a minute a day," the plan has been found highly successful in one local manufacturing plant where employees, including office workers, heartily adopted the idea with resulting increases in Community Fund contributions.

The program was laid in detail before a cross-section of manufacturing heads recently and practically without exception the group declared the "minute a day" idea one of the most flexible and at the same time one of the most painless forms of contribution ever attempted in the south.

Enthusiased with the plan, the manufacturing leaders not only agreed to present the program to employees of their separate plants, but accepted the challenge of spreading the idea into every local firm where the plan would be feasible and adaptable.

Pamphlet Explains It. A number of pamphlets have been prepared for general distribution to employees, designed to show what a minute a day would be worth in terms of money applied to 365 days of the year and with corresponding service figures to show the potential giver what his money would mean to the thousands who are served annually by the 33 agencies participating in money raised by the Community Fund.

In outlining the minute a day program to the groups division, Mr. Wolf and W. C. Harris, 1939 general chairman, told how the local manufacturers had heartily endorsed the program, explained the idea fully, and then went into other phases of the campaign the men will wage for 1939.

"You men have one very definite job to do this year," Mr. Harris told the large delegation. "That job will be to explode the myth that waste effort and high expenses exist at your Community Fund and the 33 participating agencies."

Small Overhead Cost. "A breakdown of how the 1939 dollar was spent shows us one definite thing—the amount which went for administration represented 4.2 cents. I defy anyone to show me a business which is run on that margin."

"Then when we consider that hundreds and hundreds of workers volunteer their very expert services each year for the annual appeals, added to the other hundreds who serve also without pay as directors of the agency boards, as trustees of the Fund, it is not hard to visualize well over a million dollars saved in salaries each year through the donated services of these civic leaders," Mr. Harris added.

Mr. Wolf expressed keen optimism in the evidence of enthusiasm shown at the meeting last night.

"Atlanta Will Rally." "I have felt for some time that this year would find Atlanta's fine people rallying to the one great humanitarian movement in our community in which all men and women can participate and this gathering tonight proves I was right."

"Never before in the long history of the organization has the Community Fund Appeal been so well organized this far in advance of the actual campaign (November 6-18) as we are this year. We have a big goal to reach but reach it we will," he said. A vivid demonstration on "How to sell . . . and how not to sell the Community Fund" was presented by employees of the Atlanta Gas Light Company at the dinner last night. Those who participated in the skit, written by Legare Davis, included: Hamilton King, Martha Cornelius, Carl Clausen and A. H. McAfee Jr.

"I Killed As Many O' Them

Bill Arp

Bill Arp, America's famous homespun humorist, uttered a classic expression of mock satisfaction with the outcome of the War Between the States: "I killed as many o' them as they did o' me---now I got to get back to work." It's not surprising that Bill Arp was a member of the staff of The Atlanta Constitution. His cheerful philosophy and the broad simplicity of his humor fit perfectly into a journalistic attitude which for seventy-one years has been famed for an ability to take adversity in its stride, come up smiling, and keep on meeting responsibilities as they come along.

If Bill Arp were still alive and still fashioning chuckles for these columns, his reader audience today would be many times the size it was at the zenith of his fame.

Of course The Constitution has faced troubles and disappointments with both its own section and its nation, but---in modern language of action---it's "always in there pitching." Its editorial pages studiously endeavor to reflect a proper estimate of our country's and our state's true position in and toward national and world affairs. Its news columns represent a generous and detailed coverage of world events, sifted from an overwhelming bulk of reports, in an effort to be both fair and complete. But its local attention remains focused and thorough, for not even a quaking globe can swing its loyal interest away from Georgia and Atlanta.

It is because The Constitution has always been and is today this kind of newspaper---clean, decent, independent and upstanding---that it is so universally accepted as "THE paper" in the homes of this community---that it is so universally welcomed in their homes by Atlanta women.

Is it any wonder, then, that The Constitution, Atlanta's oldest newspaper, is today First in home-delivered; First in total city; First in total trading area Circulation. Its pages provide an acceptance for the advertisers' message unequalled, perhaps, in the entire southeast.

Supreme Court To Review Two Big Anti-Trust Cases

Justice Department Receives Assurances High Tribunal Will Pass on Major Reversals Suffered in Gasoline and Milk Cases.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—(AP) The justice department received assurance today that the supreme court would review the two major reversals the department has suffered in its anti-trust campaign.

The high tribunal agreed to pass upon:

A decision by the northern Illinois federal district court dismissing indictments charging 14 corporations and associations and 43 persons with conspiracy to restrain interstate commerce in milk.

A decision by the seventh federal circuit court at Chicago ordering a new trial for 12 companies and five persons convicted of conspiracy to raise the price of gasoline in 10 mid-western states.

Hearing Set November 13. Granting the government's request for an early hearing in the milk case, the court set arguments for November 13. It announced also that a contention that it did not have jurisdiction would be considered along with the case itself.

The court also agreed today to review an appeal by the Amalgamated Utility Workers (CIO) from a decision of the second federal circuit court of appeals denying it the right to press a charge of contempt against the Consolidated Edison Company, of New York, Inc., for alleged violation of a national labor relations board order. Two lower courts held that the contempt charge rightfully could be prosecuted only by the labor board.

The milk action involved indictments against the Pure Milk Association, sales and bargaining agency for more than 12,000 dairy farmers in Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin and Michigan; Associated Milk Dealers, Inc., agency for major distributors in Chicago; the Milk Wagon Drivers Union; officers of the Chicago board of health, and others. They were charged with conspiring to fix milk prices, control the supply and suppress competition in the Chicago area.

Federal District Judge Charles Woodward, dismissing the action, held that the marketing of farm products had been removed from the jurisdiction of the Sherman anti-trust act of 1890, under which the indictments were returned.

The oil case originally was tried at Madison, Wis. The supreme court granted on June 5, a review of the action of Judge Patrick T. Stone, who presided at Madison, in dismissing indictments against 11 defendants after they had been convicted. Judge Stone also granted new trials to 18 defendants.

The charges were based on government contentions that the companies and their officers or employees had conspired to raise prices in 10 states and that their activities affected one-fourth of all the gasoline sold in the United States.

WELFARE CHECKS TO TOTAL $267,700

Georgia October Payments to Aged, Blind, Children Will Be Increased.

Public assistance payments in Georgia for October will total $267,700, according to an announcement made yesterday by the regional office of the Social Security Board in Birmingham.

Of this amount, which is an estimate of combined federal, state and local payments, $182,200 will go to the aged; $9,800 to the blind, and $75,700 to dependent children. These figures are based on state reports to the Social Security Board for previous months.

The October estimates indicate that there will be about 22,500 recipients of old age assistance, 980 recipients of aid to the blind, and 9,900 dependent children receiving aid in Georgia for the month.

Compared with August, both the amount of payments and number of recipients will be larger.

Amendments of the federal social security law in August, 1939, made provision for increasing the amount of federal grants to all three programs. For aid to the aged blind, the federal government, after January 1, 1940, will match state payments up to $40 a month to each person aided; for aid to dependent children it will pay one-half, instead of one-third of the cost to the state.

More than 2,500 men, women and children will, it is estimated, receive federal-state aid in October throughout the United States. The estimated number of needy aged is placed at 1,985,300, and of the needy blind at 45,600. Approximately 720,600 children in 299,700 families are expected to receive aid.

The Rev. W. T. Nelson, of Atlanta, will go to a pastorate in Alma, Ga., and the Rev. L. R. Whittington, of Alabama, will succeed Nelson in Atlanta.

ATLANTA HELD LEADER IN NATION'S BUSINESS

Atlanta is one of the finest business cities in the country in the opinion of Joseph M. Bryan, vice president of the Jefferson Standard Life Insurance Company, who was in Atlanta yesterday.

"Atlanta has never felt the depths of financial depression as have other parts of the country," he said. "Atlanta's diversified industries and her climate and nearby natural resources will always keep her prosperous."

Mr. Bryan is president of the North Carolina Broadcasting Company and a former newspaper reporter. His home is in Greensboro, N. C.

ATLANTA, GA., OCTOBER 17, 1939.

Approved Hospitals

Forty-three Georgia hospitals, including 12 in the Atlanta area, on Monday received the coveted rating of "approved hospital" from the American College of Surgeons. In the list made public then, for the twenty-second consecutive year, a total of 2,720 hospitals is included.

The Atlanta area hospitals on the list include the Steiner clinic, Grady hospital, Crawford W. Long hospital, Georgia Baptist hospital, Henrietta Eggleston Hospital for Children, Piedmont hospital, St. Joseph's infirmary, United States Penitentiary hospital, Veterans' Administration hospital, Emory University hospital, Scottish Rite Hospital for Crippled Children and the Fort McPherson Army hospital.

Any community may rightfully be proud when its hospitals are placed on this approved list. It means that proper hospitalization, fully up to all standards set by the college of surgeons, is available for its citizens at all times. It should be remembered, too, that the standards required for such rating are both strict and severe.

A good hospital adds to the security and prosperity of a community. Its cost is repaid, many times, in the prevention of economic and human waste, while on the emotional side the amount of suffering, of worry and of death it prevents is incalculable. Good hospitalization for a community is a form of insurance against poverty, dependency, delinquency and crime and each locality should invest as much as possible in such insurance.

Atlanta has for many years been blessed with excellent hospitals. While a greater bed capacity—which means more or larger hospitals—could be used, this city compares favorably with others of its size both in the extent and quality of the hospital service available.

It is of additional interest to note that the College of Surgeons listed four local institutions for conducting approved cancer clinics. They are Georgia Baptist hospital, Steiner Cancer hospital, Emory University hospital and the Veterans' Administration hospital. It is only within the past 20 years that the war on cancer has reached the stage where it is known, definitely, that the disease is curable if attacked in its early stages. For this reason the leaders in the fight to reduce cancer mortality have concentrated upon the spreading of knowledge about the disease. In this work approved clinics are a vital point. They provide the means by which all may discover the presence of cancer in its earliest, incipient form, if they will only go there for expert examination at the first suspicious symptom. The clinics are also of great value in concentrating the efforts of specialists who are best equipped to treat and to cure the disease.

One point worthy of special consideration in the approved hospitals list is that, of the 2,720 approved, only 209 of the hospitals are in the 25 to 49-bed size rating. This means that the hospitals in smaller towns are finding it more difficult to meet standard requirements. This may be due to the habit of the more well-to-do residents of such communities of going to large city hospitals for their own needs. Better patronage of the local hospital by those financially able to pay would pay big dividends in a more efficient and more perfectly equipped institution for time of emergencies which would not regard financial or social standings of their victims.

Every community should demand, and should make possible by its financial support, as comprehensive hospital service of approved standard, as possible.

Atlanta, in this respect, is in enviable position, but could still further improve.

In New York, the old first baseman, Gehrig, is to keep a watchful eye on the paroled. The smart parolee will not stroll too far off the bag.

A row in a Scottish town, over a memorial to the dead of the last war, merges into the new struggle without a break.

The Duke, who used to allude to himself as an event, not a man, begins to shape up in the European theater as an intermission.

In wartime Germany, the Ersts cigar already rears its ugly head. Undoubtedly another consequence of having given Hitler enough rope.

This fighting in subterranean forts sounds strangely like the big push in the bargain basement. Thus to the headaches of war are added the horrors of peace.

Another Perfect Month

Atlanta has completed another full month without a traffic fatality to mar its vital statistics record. Everyone hopes, of course, that this marks the first period of a long stretch without traffic deaths to exceed that established during the summer, of 87 days.

It will, however, take extra care at this season of the year. With the shorter days and earlier dusk, proportionately heavier after dark traffic increases the hazard of the streets. With the coming of winter, its rain and, possibly, sleet and snow, both pedestrians and motorists will find it harder to foresee approaching hazards. And colder weather will impel autoists to keep closed the windows of their cars, thus making proper signals harder to observe.

But, despite these added handicaps, the 87-day record can be broken. If Atlanta and all her visitors will, unanimously, resolve at once not to have another traffic fatality, the chances are she won't. For the traffic accident that could not have been avoided, had all involved been properly law abiding and alert, is a rarity.

Couldn't Atlanta give herself a delightful Christmas present this year by making all the days between now and the morning when Santa Claus comes 'round, days without traffic deaths?

Coffee Insurance

War risk insurance, which sometimes hampers the movement of goods between neutral countries in time of conflict, has been offset by the Brazilian government with a unique plan applicable to shipments of its coffee.

According to the Associated Coffee Industries of America, the Brazilian government will insure coffee shipments at one-half the quoted rate of the regular underwriters, with the additional provision that the rate never will be more than one per cent of the value of the cargo.

Originally set up for European shippers, it now is applicable to Americans as well, with payment of losses to be made in kind. Coffee purchased in Brazil and lost at sea will be replaced, at the docks in Santos, by an equal number of bags which the purchaser may then reship.

However novel the plan, it is doubtful that it will be far extended. For the coffee used to replace any insured bags which may be lost is that which the Brazilian government already has in reserve to be destroyed as surplus. That is one of the few advantages of having a surplus.

This Is News!

It has remained for the little town of Ozark, Ala., to provide the outstanding example for modern times of the ancient axiom that, when man bites dog, it is news.

That community has completed a new, $50,000 elementary school, without any government help whatsoever! Nary an alphabetical agency had a hand, at all. There was no federal grant in aid, no federal loan, no financial help from city, county or state.

The new building replaces a structure burned last December. The insurance on the building loss was $28,000. Ozark firms supplied building materials at cost. The state department of education contributed the sole outside help by providing free architects' plans. By taking the insurance money and what cash the local school board had on hand, and by the exercise of most careful management, the school was completed.

It duplicates all facilities of the burned building and has, in addition, a 600-seat auditorium and a basement cafeteria. Typical of the local co-operation is the fact that citizens donated the dishes and other utensils for the cafeteria.

There should be no wonder that Ozark, Ala., is strutting rather proudly these days. Not many local school boards, in this era of governmental handout, can boast of such an achievement without outside assistance.

With the scarcity of opium on account of war, some find that a Copenhagen rumor, if stuffed into a pipe, gives that feeling of unreality.

Tokyo is about to throw all its weapons into the Chinese fray to wind it up. We must, then, keep an eye out for the Emperor and his sawed-off poems.

The Fuehrer's account of why he went into Poland improves with each telling. We expect soon to hear it was in the cause of simplified spelling.

In Austria, a Nazi governor jails a circulator of rumors that he would resign. Over here, the jobholder is more vindictive. He just doesn't resign.

Editorial of the Day

WAY TO BURN FINGERS (From The Cleveland Plain Dealer.)

If Britain and France and Germany were to unite in a request to President Roosevelt to act as mediator in order to end the war, it is conceivable that he would accept the invitation. Short of this, it cannot be believed that he will take any step in the direction indicated.

That Hitler wants peace no one can doubt. His suggestions for a conference have been rejected both at Paris and London. Both the democracies would be happy to lay down their arms, but not under any such conditions as Hitler insists on; namely, that he be allowed to keep the spoils he has already won by wholesale violation of decency and law.

Were the President now to act on the "indirect" request from Berlin he would in effect be asking America's friends to acquiesce in the past sins of their enemy and agree to abandon all plans for punishing him for them. One can think of no surer way for America to get her fingers burned.

Mr. Roosevelt is canny enough to see this clearly. The role of international peace-maker has an attractive lure, but it is to be taken with the utmost caution, when taken at all. At least it may be said that the time has not arrived for Washington to assume the role.

THE CAPITAL PARADE

By JOSEPH ALSOP AND ROBERT KINTNER.

BUSINESS IN GOVERNMENT WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—Since the dismissal of the unfortunate War Resources Board, the impression has got about that business men's emergency participation in the government is at an end. This is not the fact. Actually, many of the government agencies and departments are constantly calling for business volunteers, but, as the new recruits are greeted with no great fanfare, their presence is not noticed.

At the Commerce Department, indeed, the business volunteers have been chiefly instrumental in building up an entirely new departmental prestige and authority. Under old Uncle Dan Roper, commerce was a shabby warren of political hacks. When Harry L. Hopkins was made secretary, he had great plans, but his untimely illness caused them to be still-born. Only lately has the amiable under-secretary, the ex-Life-Saver king, Edward Noble, been able to get a real grip on departmental affairs.

As soon as it was clear that he was fully in charge in his chief's absence, Noble began bringing down men to infuse new life in the department. Some of them are younger businessmen of a liberal cast of mind, like Dudley P. K. Wood, formerly a director of American Machine and Foundry. Others are seasoned veterans, like Robert E. McConnell, a slightly surprising millionaire who will serve as a typical specimen of this novel genus of public servant.

THE CATALYST ADVENTURE McConnell, whose official title is now business adviser to the Department of Commerce, is a tallish, dark, pleasant-spoken man. He does not seem to have gained the self-confidence most men would derive from the possession of a very respectable number of millions of dollars. Yet he has done some bold things in his time. He was born in Montrose, Col., in 1889, graduated from the Columbia University school of mines, and became a mining engineer in the years before the first World War. He did not do badly in the business, but he had made no name for himself when the United States joined the Allies. He came on to Washington to volunteer, was made a junior lieutenant in the navy, and put in charge of the navy's catalyst section. There, rather fretfully, he stayed until the war ended.

Then, the army was intensely anxious to get its hands on the process for manufacturing artificial nitrates, which had enabled Germany to prolong her resistance. Because so many army officers wanted to fight the Battle of Paris, there was a general order forbidding any of them to leave for France after the armistice. Not wishing to make an exception, Secretary of War Newton D. Baker applied to Assistant Secretary of the Navy Franklin D. Roosevelt, for a young navy officer to get the German formula. McConnell was chosen, sailed for Europe, and made his way to one of the German towns where the nitrates were being manufactured. The secret of the German process was the chemical catalyst by which hydrogen and nitrogen were combined into ammonia. The catalyst was sealed up in the factory's huge blending tanks, and the factory managers politely refused to give McConnell a sample. Finally, he went to the French commander of the army of occupation, asked angrily, "Who the hell won this war?" and obtained a military escort with whose help he got all that he wanted. He was just in time, for a few days later, Germany's right to her chemical secrets was suddenly confirmed.

SIGN OF THE TIMES After the war, McConnell went into the investment business, and in 1929 founded an investment trust, the Mayflower Associates, which was given the SEC's blue ribbon for good management. As McConnell sold out the trust's portfolio just after the market peak in 1929, reinvested its funds just before the low in 1932, and finally liquidated it at the high in 1936, the blue ribbon was well deserved. The stockholders got $137 for every $60 they put in, and McConnell got his handsome private fortune.

McConnell has had a singular career, but his contribution to the government is by no means singular. He and the other business men like him bring a fresh viewpoint and an informal approach to public affairs which puts the regular officials completely on their toes. If the men like McConnell were highly publicized boob-bahs, they would probably not do much good, for they would be constantly tripping over their press clippings. But, inconspicuous as these men are, and minor as their official rank may be, the presence in the government is one of the really encouraging signs of the times.

By RALPH T. JONES.

Some Things That Puzzle Me.

There are, of course, innumerable things, situations and modes of thought in this world of war today that puzzle me. And, it must be so, that puzzle all of us.

However, there are a few things—rather, thoughts—that come to the surface on this side of the Atlantic, that, to me, are difficult of comprehension. And it seems like a good idea to discuss one or two of those here, today.

First of all, let us consider that recent proposal, advanced by some of the most heated debaters, in or out of congress, on the issue of repeal of the arms embargo in that misnamed "neutrality act."

This is the proposal to limit exports of arms to "defensive arms," alone and prohibit so-called "offensive arms."

Who is going to define the two groups? It seems to me all arms belong equally in either classification.

Let Us Illustrate.

For instance, if a professional killer uses a revolver to "wipe out" his victim, that revolver is undoubtedly an offensive weapon. But the peaceful, honest householder may use exactly the same gun to defend his home against burglars. Then it becomes, also beyond question, strictly a defensive weapon.

Take another, more analogous example. One of the belligerent nations sends squadrons of bombing planes to attack an enemy objective. A railroad center, a munitions dump or a city. As they approach their goal, hundreds of combat planes soar into the air to drive them away. Certainly, those combat planes are defensive weapons, in that instance.

A little later, however, the other side decides to make a heavy attack on the enemy lines. And it sends out, as its first move, wave after wave of those same combat planes to clear the air of enemy flyers.

You'd have to class those combat planes as offensive weapons, wouldn't you, in that instance?

The bombing planes that attack cities, they're offensive weapons when so used, but if they bomb enemy artillery emplacements, to try and stop the shells decimating their own ranks, they'd be defensive.

When you add to the problem the ancient axiom that the best defense is an offense, you confuse the issue still further. It seems to me all weapons are both offensive and defensive, depending entirely upon the circumstances of their use.

Damned If You Do, Damned If You Don't.

Then there are those who strive so desperately to find anti-British argument. They are the people who, in one breath, condemn Britain for not attempting to stop the Germans when they seized the Saar, when they swallowed Austria, or even Czechoslovakia, and the next moment contend the sole motive for Britain's war, now,

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Never Can NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—It seems advisable at this point that Martin Dies, the chairman of the house committee on anti-American activities, be reminded that a backslid Communist or a disillusioned fellow-traveler does not, by a simple word of renunciation, become washed of his past and eligible for the confidence of those who never made the pilgrimage to Moscow. Twice lately Mr. Dies has permitted himself to be photographed in a compromising spirit with individuals whose testimony, while it did put the finger on the conspiracy, nevertheless failed to vindicate themselves. He seemed to forget that a Communist or a conscious fellow-traveler could not have become such in the first place if he had not been qualified by character and that persons of that character never can be trusted. It is necessary to make use of them but not to indicate any other feeling toward them than that of a prosecutor toward a rogue who has turned state's evidence.

I have in mind particularly the man known as General Krivitsky, who claims to have been the chief of the Soviet's military intelligence—in short, a Moscow conspirator—in several European countries and now claims to have fallen out with Stalin. It is quite possible that he has broken with Moscow, but by his own story he has condemned himself as thoroughly as he has exposed anyone else. He is, by his own admission—in fact, his boast—a dangerous man and when his testimony has been amplified and checked this country easily could do without him.

Glib The Maurice Malkin who testified to Soviet espionage and admitted a prison record for slugging in a strike, need not be embraced merely because his testimony was useful, if it was. Its value seems doubtful, but it will not have been altogether useless only if it provides ground for a prosecution that will put him away again.

Ben Gitlow, the deposed head of the American Communist party, gave interesting information about Soviet crimes against the United States, the forgery of passports and the counterfeiting of American money, but the mere fact of his having quit the organization over a matter of rivalry or discipline doesn't erase the record of his service in the party at the time of its most vicious treachery to this nation. Nothing can acquit him of a nature which was capable of continuing at these evil operations, and his apostasy to the party can be attributed to no change of principle or character but only to jealousy or a quarrel over procedure.

I would cite, also, J. B. Matthews, the American who gave us the term fellow-traveler in last year's investigation and who has now bobbed up as the chief investigator for the Dies committee. Matthews may do good work hunting down his late comrades, but in his own testimony and in the book in which he later explained all, this man proves that he was himself a part of the scheme to undermine the American form of government at the instance of a foreign power. He makes a pathetic attempt to exonerate himself of deliberate lying.

"I saw," he wrote of the Russian language, "such appalling sights of poverty as would move the coldest heart—thousands of men and women fighting like wild animals to board the trains, women separated from their children and screaming long after the train had left their offspring behind."

Didn't Know He saw famine, but later, back New York, at the request of a Communist paper and without reading them, he issued a series of articles in which another writer described the horrible sufferings in the Ukraine. He denounced the stories as a betrayal of the working class, and says "I had no more thought of lying than of flying. All of us fellow-travelers were ready to help the Communist party in its predicament. In my own mind the Soviet Union was the fatherland of the working class. How, therefore, could it have a famine which would take its toll by the million even though I had seen the evidence of it with my own eyes?"

Three million dead of starvation but no meetings to have the Ukraine from Stalin's terror."

This educated man, an intellectual, sore-head, now working for the Dies committee, claims he didn't know the difference between the truth and falsehood and the committee treats him with dignity and respect merely because he squealed!

Such people and all those who recently quit the party or denied the sympathies which they formerly showed, especially in labor unions, are the same today as they were before petty differences estranged them. The Soviet government has done nothing in the last two months or the last 10 years any more savage or treacherous than it had already done when these individuals, on that record, nevertheless, regarded it as the greatest experiment ever made for human betterment.

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH MCGILL.

THE "FAIT ACCOMPLI" In 1933 Japan marched into Manchuria and took that territory, violating all treaties and the provision of the League of Nations.

Once in the Japanese asked for recognition on the ground of a "Fait Accompli," meaning an accomplished fact. The United States viewed it as an act of aggression. This was the time when the United States, through Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson, Secretary Stimson called Sir John Simon, the English foreign secretary. This was the call famed in song and story. It was made during a week end. Tradition has it that Sir John said, "Doesn't the fellow know this is a week end? Tell him to write me a letter."

Stimson and the United States government were rebuffed. Japan had her "fait accompli."

Later, at Geneva, Sir John Simon said in 15 minutes what the Japanese had been trying, as they said, "for months" to put into words.

Today Germany has marched into Poland and taken it. Germany asks for recognition of the "fait accompli."

The borders of Poland are guaranteed by France and England, not because of any regard for the Polish people who lived under one of the harshest dictatorships in Europe, but because Hitler had been warned any further aggression after Munich would mean war.

This is advanced, not for odious comparisons, but merely to point out that the war did not grow out of any desire to protect "democracy" or Poland. It was all right with England and France for Manchuria to be taken by Japan, in violation of the League of Nations agreement which Japan had signed. It was not all right for Germany to take Poland.

Why? There was no conflict of interest in the former. There was in the second.

The moral issue, the imposing of a military government on a helpless people, was not a consideration.

WAITING FOR PEACE

Speaking yesterday before the Atlanta Rotary Club, Vicente Villamin, well-known journalist and attorney of the Philippines, said that inevitably, if war continued, Russia and Japan would rise as the great powers of Europe.

This statement is one on which all minds agree. If England and France win they will be exhausted. If Germany wins she will be exhausted. Russia and Japan wait for the plums to fall in their laps.

"It would be a very great calamity," said the visiting journalist, "for Russia and Japan to dominate Europe. It would mean, I am afraid, the end of English civilization."

There still seems to be a possibility of peace. It is, I will admit, obscure. Yet if the war goes on it will be because the great men of the three nations involved are unwilling to make concessions.

The people of Germany do not want war. This was demonstrated by the wild reception given the false announcement of an armistice which last week set the Germans to celebrating. They celebrated what they believed was an end to hostilities, not a victory. The people of England and France do not desire war. They desire an end to oft-repeated threats such as they were subjected to when Hitler was on the loose.

Since no one wants war it seems insane to insist there must be war.

The Allies desire the restoration of Poland only as it will symbolize the retreat of Hitler. They know it is impossible for Poland to be restored even if Hitler agreed. Russia has the larger portion of it. England and France will not fight Russia and most emphatically do not want Russia in the war. Therefore, there ought to be an admission the borders of Poland cannot be restored. If they begin a major war they merit no assistance.

OUR OWN COUNTRY

Are we in Georgia, with school teachers unpaid and the school system monstrously treated, in need of going to war?

Not in Europe, but at home. We are in need of going to war in behalf of the teachers and the schools wherein must be taught a deep and abiding belief in free institutions and the individual.

Are we in Georgia in favor of "rescuing Europe" when our helpless and indigent old people are denied social services in line with the development of a progressive people?

Are we in Fulton county interested in war when our county commission frankly says there will be hunger, and lots of it, in Fulton county this winter?

There are enough problems to confront us. Our own dead and wounded are to be found on our own social battle fields. The European problem becomes more and more transparent. There is no ideology in it. There is no single gun being fired with a thought of defense of democracy behind it. Nothing can happen which can make it necessary for us to go.

It is a time for self-interest. Let them buy what they can and pay cash for it. They owe us billions which the people of this country lent them. It is a part of our taxes, that debt. Our tax load would be less if England, France and Germany would pay their just debts. They owe us. We have no debt.

Where Bandits Have Guns, It Is Murder To Equip Policemen With Spears

By ROBERT QUILLLEN.

Congressmen are neither patriots nor statesmen. They are ordinary humans, neither better nor worse, neither wiser nor more stupid than the people who elect them.

Naturally, their first concern is to keep their jobs. To this end, they try to give their constituents the things they desire. They get money from the federal treasury; they provide jobs; they run errands.

These things keep them busy, and they have neither time nor incentive to do other things not demanded by their constituents. They made no effort to equip an army, for instance, because the people aren't interested in such matters in time of peace, and there's no profit in working at something that won't make votes.

Therefore, we again face the danger of war, as always in the past, without weapons to defend ourselves. And if war comes, many thousands must die needlessly because everybody's business is nobody's business.

People are told we are arming, and that hurls them to sleep again, but month after month passes—in times when a week of delay can mean ruin—and we haven't even organized our forces to start production.

The first essential in building an army is trained men. Early this year we had 186,000, but that included all of the office workers and helpers behind the line. The number trained to fight was only 60,000.

Even these are not equipped for anything but heroic suicide. The engineers lack equipment. The medical regiments lack hospital equipment and ambulances. There is only one signal battalion for the whole army. There aren't enough trucks to transport the few men we have.

The army has only 600 modern combat planes. It has the best field gun in the world, but there are only twelve. It has the best semi-automatic rifle in the world, but there are only 12,000 and we aren't building more than 2,000 a month. Figure how long it will take to equip a million men.

We have only a fraction of the machine guns needed, and this is equally true of anti-tank guns, anti-aircraft guns, tanks, heavy artillery and modern high-speed carriages.

Mind you, this is the state of our present little army of 60,000 fighters. How could we equip a real army? It will take several years, even if we do our utmost. And then men must be taught to use this modern equipment, for the complicated war machines of today cannot be handled by rookies.

We have seen brave men cut down like wheat in China, Spain and Poland for want of weapons equal to the enemy's. There is no excuse for risking a similar sacrifice of our boys.

While There's Talk There's Hope

GOOD MORNING -- By Louie D. Newton*DEATH'S COMPENSATION.

Dr. B. J. W. Graham told a group of us the other morning about a remark of his great grandmother, Mrs. Windsor Graham, which greatly impressed me. Dr. Graham said that when he was a young man he went to his grandmother, then 95-years-old, and asked her how long she had been a Christian. She told him she had been a Christian 85 years.

And then he asked her how long she was a Christian before Satan quit bothering her. She replied: "You will have to find someone who has been a Christian longer than I have to find that out. In fact, my son, it seems to me that the great compensation of death will be the fact that Satan will then no longer bother me."

Dr. Graham then remarked that he had never heard of Satan spending any time trying to tear down the wills of people who had "entered into His presence." It is only while we are in the earthly pilgrimage that Satan can get at us. He cannot cross over into the land and life which God has prepared for the redeemed of the Lord.

I had never thought of it just like that—that death's compensation, at least one of them, will be everlasting deliverance from the temptations of Satan. We shall never again see him, never again hear the rustle of his nimble steps, never again feel the chilling touch of his subtle schemes and snares.

But remember well what the great grandmother said, that she had been a Christian 85 years and that the young man would have to find someone who had been a Christian longer than she had to find out when Satan ceases his effort to tear down the trust of God's child.

Paul said, "When I would do good, evil is present with me." Paul also said, "Be not overcome of evil, but overcome evil with good." In these statements we seem to find the stern fact that Satan is going to keep up his warfare, and that the way to combat him is to be busy doing the will of God.

And I like the suggestion of Grandmother Graham that we may look forward with full confidence to the ultimate day of defeat for Satan when the chariot of the Lord swings low and bears us beyond his reach forevermore.

CONSUMER BUYING IS BEST SINCE 1929

September Expenditures Reported at $511,500,000; $467,000,000 in 1938.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—(P)—War hasn't tightened the purse strings of the American consumer, an economist reported today.

On the contrary, A. W. Zelom, specialist in retail statistics, said dollars were passing over the retail counters last month at the fastest rate for any September since 1929, the last high water mark of business prosperity.

He figured general merchandise expenditures in department stores, mail order houses, chain and variety stores at $511,500,000 compared with $467,000,000 in September last year.

"The favorable rate of consumer buying," he explained, "has been due largely to the marked increase in employment and pay rolls."

tion of September 29, whereby Soviet Russia was pledged, in case Hitler's forthcoming peace proposals should not be deemed acceptable in Paris and London, to consult with Germany about requisite measures to be taken jointly.

That omission was particularly noticed last Thursday night when Dr. Dietrich, German press minister, volunteered to be interviewed by journalists of various neutral countries after he had been closeted with Hitler for over an hour. Obviously, last week, Hitler did not feel he could take it for granted that Joseph Stalin was ready to lend help and depart from his position of neutrality.

Since then, it has been ascertained from several sources that the German ambassador to Moscow and the German economic mission staying there have continuously insisted that the failure of Hitler's peace offer made it imperative for Russia, on account of the promise given September 29 and because of her own national interests, hardly to be reconciled with victory for the western powers, to enlarge exports of raw materials to Germany beyond the level indicated in the economic agreement signed at the same time as the peace declaration.

Such a demand means, in practice, that the Soviet union ought to conduct negotiations with Turkish Foreign Minister Saracoglu in such a manner as to make sure that Turkey in no conceivable juncture would interfere, or allow France or Britain to interfere, with tankers carrying oil from Batum to Odessa or Constantza across the Black sea.

Whether Soviet Premier Molotov has really tried to comply with the German request, or, at any rate, has given Germany the impression he would do his best to fulfill it, is not known here. However, it can be doubted whether Saracoglu would find it consonant with his settled program of foreign policy to entertain it.

Saracoglu's program of foreign policy is not shrouded in mystery, since it has been abundantly explained in the Turkish press. Its main points are, first, to retain and uphold in the eastern Mediterranean the obligations of automatic mutual assistance entered into toward France and England last June; second, as far as the maintenance of the Balkan status quo is concerned, to set up a machinery of diplomatic consulta-

F. D. R. Proclaims Armistice Day, Urges Reflection Upon Peace Hour

November 11 Set as Holiday for American Nation To Look Forward to a Just and Enduring Peace Among All Peoples of the Earth.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—(P)—Proclaiming November 11 as Armistice Day, President Roosevelt asserted today that it was appropriate for the American people to reflect upon the hour "when the voices of war were silenced and to look forward even now to a time when a just and enduring peace shall be established among all the peoples of the earth."

The proclamation, issued at a time when Europe again is engaged in conflict, commented on the "tragic situation in which the world finds itself today, with the destructive forces of war once again unleashed."

The President acted in accordance with an act of congress, passed in 1926, requesting the chief executive to issue an armistice proclamation. An act in 1938 provided that each November 11 shall be "dedicated to the cause of world peace," and made a legal public holiday.

The proclamation directed that the United States flag be displayed on all government buildings November 11 and the President invited the people of the nation "to observe the day in schools and churches, or other suitable places, with appropriate ceremonies."

The original Armistice Day act of 1926 proposed appropriate ceremonies "expressive of our gratitude for peace and our desire for the continuance of friendly relations with all other people."

Whole Arrangement. The whole arrangement, if it can be fixed up, will turn out to be a sort of bridge between the western powers and Russia, with Turkey as its main pillar.

But everything is likely to fall to the ground if Russia requires the Ankara government to close the Black sea to British and French warships and simultaneously claims, at Germany's instigation, the right to make such use of the monopoly of maritime traffic thus conceded to her as to undermine Anglo-French power.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 16.—(P)—It certainly isn't a good idea to use slugs in a police station pay telephone.

Desk Sergeant Levi Copeland became suspicious when a man booked on two traffic charges began calling up friends for bail. Searching the man, the officer said he found 22 slugs, and that an inspector found three more in the telephone's coin box.

Nazi Plot To Overthrow Hungarian Regime Crushed

140 Members of Outlawed 'Death Legion' Reported Arrested; Projected Putsch Aimed at Assassination of Parliament Members, Is Charge.

By EDWARD KENNEDY.
BUDAPEST, Oct. 16.—(P)—A projected putsch by Hungarian Nazi extremists, which was said to include the assassination of 17 members of parliament, today was reported crushed with the arrest of 140 members of the outlawed Hungarian "Death Legion."

Reliable informants said the Legion's program included not only acting against the government but a purge of the badly split Hungarian Nazi movement's more moderate leaders. News of the plot and its outcome was given first by Nazis of the latter classification and a number of deputies later said they had confirmed the reports.

They said those marked for death included Kalman Hubay, whom the Hungarian Nazi chose to succeed Ferenc Szalasi, "Hungarian Hitler," after the latter was sentenced to three years in jail.

Although there was no immediate confirmation from official sources, Nazi said the projected putsch was crushed Saturday by the arrests and seizure of a large number of rifles, machine guns and hand grenades which the group allegedly had assembled in its plan to overthrow the government and install a Nazi regime.

The chief of the secret police conferred with the minister of interior several times during the day.

Foreign sources said they believed that as a result of the incident the government would outlaw all Nazi groups. There are 50 Nazi in parliament.

The alleged plot was said to be similar in some respects to the recent abortive coup of the pro-Nazi iron guard in Rumania which resulted in the assassination of Premier Armand Calinescu.

Nazi sources said 200 persons so far had been linked to the plot, with police hunting for those still at large. Five leaders were said to have fled into Austria.

Officials said they regarded the "Death Legion" as the most pro-German of the Hungarian Nazi factions, the other elements having turned more nationalistic and some showing rather anti-German tendencies.

Slightly Higher Mercury Is Predicted for Today

Fair skies and slight, "higher" temperatures were forecast for Atlanta today, with extremes near 68 and 42.

The warm weather is not likely to continue long, however, for sharply dropping temperatures in the northwest yesterday threatened to spread another cool wave over the country by the middle of the week or a little later.

The mercury was subnormal generally except for a belt from the Great Lakes southwest to Texas. Freezing temperatures were prevalent northeastward from Asheville.

An ocean storm which was moving northeastward from Bermuda was not expected to do serious damage along the Atlantic coast, although a high tide and high wind tore up about 70 feet of a new pier at St. Augustine, Fla.

They will be permitted to take household goods, objects of historic or artistic value, automobiles, jewelry and tools necessary for their trade, plus 50 Estonian kronas (about $12.50). Cash in excess of this sum will be deposited to the repatriated person's credit and transferred as soon as practicable into German marks.

The agreement was expected to serve as a model for similar pacts to bring home Germans in Latvia, Lithuania, Soviet Russia, Yugoslavia, Hungary and Rumania. The first contingent of Germans from Latvia arrived at Gdinhafen (Gdynia) aboard the steamer Scharhoern last night.

Meanwhile, the German tenor of war sentiment was: "England, you asked for it and now you are getting it."

Nazi quarters spoke as if victory was at hand and as if "the new European order" was exclusively Germany's affair.

The newspaper Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung wrote: "We destroy Versailles (the treaty) not with England but without England and with our own strength, and now against England we are going to be the strong continental power."

Strength Surprises Nazis.
Startling even to Germans, who normally have great faith in submarines, was what they termed the ability of the undersea craft to attack heavily armored battleships.

Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering was reported to have held bombing planes as an "ace in the hole" for attacks against the British fleet, but was represented as believing submarines had stolen the show from the air fleet.

Squadrons of bombers were reported perched on their North Sea bases awaiting orders to attack. One commentator said tonight:

"This war hasn't started, as even on the sea the Reich's full power for various reasons has not yet spoken."

The Germans took the attitude that the offensive power of submarines had increased to a greater extent than the British navy's defense power.

NAZIS CONCENTRATE ON ENGLISH FLEET

It did not necessarily mean the Repulse was sunk.

The report that the Repulse had been torpedoed so soon after the sinking, announced Saturday, of the 29,150-ton Royal Oak caused Nazi confidence to increase by leaps and bounds. Germany would win the war, was the confident expression.

Details of both encounters were lacking as the submarine commander apparently was attempting to attack all British ships he could find before returning to his home base to make a report—and receive the Iron Cross for his achievement.

(The Repulse was commissioned in 1916 and reconstructed in 1936 at a cost of about $5,500,000. The warship has a complement of from 1,181 to 1,205 men.)

Allied Planes Downed.
Submarines did not steal all the limelight. Anti-aircraft batteries in the region of Mainz and Frankfurt on the Main, the high command reported, last night brought down a British Whitney bombing plane and a French Potez 63 scout plane.

The announcement said one Frenchman and one Briton were killed and three British and two French fliers taken prisoners.

While submarines were giving Germany's answer to Britain's rejection of Hitler's peace offer, diplomats at Tallinn signed an agreement with the Estonian government for repatriation of German minorities in that country.

The pact was signed, it was pointed out, in accordance with Hitler's plan announced to the Reichstag October 6, to return people of German extraction from neighboring countries. It was estimated about 15,000 persons of German blood were living in Estonia.

Under the agreement, Estonian citizens registered as belonging to the German minority will be given three months in which to cancel their Estonian citizenship and leave.

About $12.50 Cash.
They will be permitted to take household goods, objects of historic or artistic value, automobiles, jewelry and tools necessary for their trade, plus 50 Estonian kronas (about $12.50). Cash in excess of this sum will be deposited to the repatriated person's credit and transferred as soon as practicable into German marks.

The agreement was expected to serve as a model for similar pacts to bring home Germans in Latvia, Lithuania, Soviet Russia, Yugoslavia, Hungary and Rumania. The first contingent of Germans from Latvia arrived at Gdinhafen (Gdynia) aboard the steamer Scharhoern last night.

Meanwhile, the German tenor of war sentiment was: "England, you asked for it and now you are getting it."

Nazi quarters spoke as if victory was at hand and as if "the new European order" was exclusively Germany's affair.

The newspaper Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung wrote: "We destroy Versailles (the treaty) not with England but without England and with our own strength, and now against England we are going to be the strong continental power."

Strength Surprises Nazis.
Startling even to Germans, who normally have great faith in submarines, was what they termed the ability of the undersea craft to attack heavily armored battleships.

Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering was reported to have held bombing planes as an "ace in the hole" for attacks against the British fleet, but was represented as believing submarines had stolen the show from the air fleet.

Squadrons of bombers were reported perched on their North Sea bases awaiting orders to attack. One commentator said tonight:

"This war hasn't started, as even on the sea the Reich's full power for various reasons has not yet spoken."

The Germans took the attitude that the offensive power of submarines had increased to a greater extent than the British navy's defense power.

Arena of German Drive

German troops, apparently seeking to dislodge French troops from positions threatening weak points in the Siegfried line at Trier, attacked down the Moselle valley yesterday and drove the French back into their own soil at Apach. The Nazi drive wiped out a four-mile river-front salient the French had thrust into German soil. French penetration east of Apach is shown by the shaded area.

embourg territory to out-flank the whole French front.

Since the French had been holding advance positions some two miles inside German territory at this point, it appeared to military observers here that today's German attack obviously had driven the French back that distance.

Penetrate French Lines.
The first real shock of the German attack hit the French on the Schneberg Heights, which form a bastion east of Apach.

Thin lines of French observation posts, guarded by land mines, were penetrated by the Germans. Before the French were able to reorganize their defenses Nazi troops swept into French territory, occupied the first houses of the village of Apach.

Immediately, however, the French said, French artillery found the range of the advancing Germans and forced them to halt on the outskirts of the little Lorraine village.

Drive Germans Back.
The French reformed their lines and drove the Germans back to position 400 yards north of Apach, which left the Nazis holding a line 100 yards inside French territory.

This would mean a total advance of between a mile and a quarter and a mile and a half for them during the day.

Unconfirmed reports said that in other sectors on the northern flank the French withdrew their most advanced posts to main line positions on German territory to be better prepared to repulse German attacks.

Is Heaviest Fighting.
Today's fighting undoubtedly was the heaviest on the western front, although no figures were available immediately on the number of men involved or the number of casualties.

There was no indication whether today's Nazi drive was the beginning of a general attack or merely the strongest local action to date.

The four-mile sector along which the Germans attacked shortly after dawn today is on a narrow plateau where the French themselves made their first advance into Germany exactly seven weeks ago.

The heights of Schneberg drop down into a deep ravine which cuts through the village of Apach itself and then extends into the Moselle river.

Repulsed at Ravine.
The Germans apparently occupied a part of the village east of the ravine but French machine gun fire from positions on the other side prevented their crossing the ravine and made their positions so difficult that Nazi advance patrols decided to retire to the heights, leaving the French to hold the village.

The French, obviously anticipating the German attack after more than 24 hours' warning given by scouts, had withdrawn their main forces to the line of the ravine, leaving only advance patrols to absorb the first shock on the heights and to send back a warning of the force of the attack.

Use Heavy Tanks.
First reports said the Germans used companies of heavy tanks in advance of infantry, which moved forward behind rolling barrage of artillery fire reminiscent of World War days.

The sector where the action occurred had been one of the most active areas for German patrols for weeks. German artillery had pounded the French rear between Apach and Sierck until a sudden silence fell over the entire German front 24 hours before the attack began, giving the French commanders adequate warning that an offensive was imminent.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 16.—(P)—Five police cars dashed up to a fur shop and 10 officers, answering a burglar alarm, piled out with drawn guns.

BILLINGS' RELEASE ORDERED BY OLSON

confidence in Billings' innocence but could not pardon him at once because of a state law requiring approval of the state supreme court in cases where there had been a prior conviction.

The Governor asserted he had asked for a pardon recommendation October 13 because he was convinced Billings was convicted upon perjured testimony and through suppression of evidence. He called the court's attention, he said, to the legal questions arising from the fact Billings was not charged, tried or convicted of having been previously convicted of a felony.

Release Today.
"It has therefore been urged by a number of prominent members of the bar that this applicant stands convicted as merely a first offender," he said, "and that I, as chief executive, have the power to grant him a full and unconditional pardon without the necessity of obtaining a recommendation from the supreme court. I shall consider my legal power in that regard at a later date."

The Governor signed the order for release as soon as he received word from the court, but the official seal with which it must be stamped is in Sacramento, so the order must go first to the state capital there, and then to Folsom prison. Governor's office attaches said they thought Billings would be in a free man by tomorrow noon or early afternoon.

MOONEY EXPECTS PARDON OF BILLINGS.
PITTSBURGH, Oct. 16.—(P)—Tom Mooney said tonight he was "glad" Warren K. Billings had received a commutation of sentence but was "genuinely sorry" that California's Governor Culbert L. Olson "has not seen fit to grant Billings an outright pardon."

Mooney was convicted with Billings of first-degree murder in San Francisco's Preparedness Day parade bombing in 1916 but was pardoned by Governor Olson.

"Billings was just as innocent as I and just as deserving of freedom as I," Mooney said, declaring that both had been "framed and railroaded on perjured testimony."

He added that he was "convinced" Governor Olson would pardon Billings as soon as he could "clear up technicalities."

COMMISSION PICKS IRA DODD AS HEAD OF REFORMATORY

Votes To Put All Five Members on Each of Standing Committees; Hears Auto Cost Cuts.

Ira H. Dodd, veteran employee of Fulton county schools, yesterday was elected unanimously as superintendent of the white boys' reformatory, Hapeville, as the Fulton county commission in special session moved to ease tension in its membership by expanding membership of all standing committees to include the entire commission.

Election of Dodd followed a recommendation by a special citizens' commission, headed by Jere A. Wells, county school superintendent, and marks the beginning of conversion of the old farm into a vocational training school.

Abrogating a 50-year-old tradition during which various standing committees of the commission have been composed of three members, the commission voted unanimously and without debate to increase the membership to five so that all commission members will be members of all committees.

Reverses Former Stand. Sponsored apparently by the entire commission, the measure created no dissension, and was marked contrast to another measure offered several weeks ago to abolish all standing committees and place their functions again directly under the commission acting as a body.

At that time, commission members voted three against passage to two for.

Observers yesterday contended that the action also might react to soften caustic criticisms of county administrative methods by the September-October grand jury, but intimation as to what the grand jury's attitude will be was not forthcoming.

While the original committee proposal would have abolished all committees and placed every commissioner on a parity in administration of various county departments, the measure will give every commissioner an opportunity to vote on everything any committee does if he so desires, it was pointed out.

Criticism of Plan. At the time the original paper was presented it was pointed out that some commissioners were not familiar with the functions of various departments because they were administered largely by committees of which all the commissioners were not members, and in most instances by the chairmen of the committees without recourse to committee members.

Whether or not the new arrangement will obviate such criticism remains a matter for future development, it was said. It hinges solely on whether or not committee chairmen assemble their committees to discuss various matters, and then, on whether or not the entire committee attends.

At any rate, it will eliminate criticism that all members of the commission do not have the opportunity to know various county functions. Criticizing members can learn what is going on if they attend meetings. If they do not, the fault will lie with them.

Check on Auto Expense. Board members also ordered a survey and a report on the duties of 16 employees whose automobile transportation allowance, for which the county is paying, was questioned by the grand jury.

At the insistence of Commissioner Troy G. Chastain, the commission asked that the survey be made as soon as possible.

"I think the least the commission can do is to give some consideration to the grand jury's recommendations to determine if they are workable, and if not, in what respects they are not," Chastain said.

A savings of $2,196 was effected in September under the new county transportation plan, the first full month's operation since it went into effect, Al Martin, transportation clerk, notified the commission meeting.

Dodd will succeed W. H. Maxwell as superintendent of the boys' farm, if Dodd is able to get a six months' leave of absence from the board of education,

Poison, Bullets Dispatch Violent Circus Elephant

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 16.—(AP) Poison and rifle bullets were used today to kill "Billy Sunday," a 6,000-pound bull elephant which appeared before millions of spectators.

The 35-year-old Billy was put to death at Lincoln Park zoo because he had long been violent and unmanageable.

Wells said. Maxwell has been superintendent since last March.

Changes at Boys' Farm.

Maxwell will be appointed supervisor of vocational training at the farm, commissioners said, and a supervisor of agricultural training is to be designated later. In all other respects Dodd will be given a free hand in administration of the institution and in selection of its personnel.

The new superintendent for eight years was superintendent of Milton county schools before Fulton county merged with Fulton. Since then he has been superintendent of transportation and chief truant officer for the Fulton schools. In the latter work he has been associated closely with white and negro juvenile farms and courts.

While the commission was in session yesterday, various subcommittees of the grand jury continued their study of county administration. Wardens from all the prison camps and Chief Warden A. A. (Bud) Clarke were questioned about the use of county convict labor and materials on privately owned subdivisions and cemeteries.

After Dodd's election, the commission made public the recommendations of the citizens' advisory committee, which the July-August grand jury recommended be appointed to assist in revamping the institution.

Citizens' Recommendations.

Among the outstanding recommendations were:

1. Employment of two trained vocational supervisors and two experienced school teachers.

2. Employment of an experienced dietitian, to supervise the food of inmates and instruct them in health and hygiene.

3. Immediate purchase of all equipment necessary for the vocational training program "as it appears there are sufficient funds in the current budget to meet this expense."

4. Installation of an athletic, or recreational program, under the supervision of an athletic director from one of the public schools.

5. Organization of a band, orchestra and glee club under a public school music supervisor.

Religious Services. 6. Institution of daily religious services under the direction of the management and Sunday services conducted by visiting ministers.

7. Installation of a complete record system, including daily reports on the health and behavior of inmates and inventories on equipment and supplies, to be followed by annual reports to the commission.

8. Establishment of salaries of employees commensurate with their qualifications and duties in order that employees may be made to feel that future employment will be dependent on their efficiency and the results obtained.

There was considerable speculation as to just what impelled the committee personnel additions, but the most plausible appeared to be that commissioners were ready to give every commission member an "insight into the administration of the county from all angles."

The new move also will to some extent curb "politics" in 1940 committee appointments when the board reorganizes. Under the rotation system of filling commission posts, Chastain probably will be designated as chairman of the 1940 commission, succeeding Ed L. Almand, who probably will go to the chairmanship of the important public works committee.

Appoints Chairman.

Chastain, therefore, will make 1940 committee appointments. However, under the resolution approved yesterday, he will do nothing more than name committee chairmen, with all members of the commission becoming members of every committee automatically.

In 1939, a parks department was created and Chastain has been chairman of this committee, second in importance at the present time only to the public works committee. It is considered likely that Commissioner Ragsdale, who is now public works chairman, will go to the parks committee next year.

The police committee is now headed by Dr. Charles R. Adams, while Gloor Hailey is chairman of the alms and juveniles committee.

Under the normal rotation system which has been in effect for years, except for a short hiatus in 1935 during the feud between former Commissioner George F. Longino and the late Commissioner Edwin F. Johnson, Hailey would become vice chairman of the commission and 1940 and, if re-elected as a commissioner in 1940, would be in line for the chairmanship in 1941.

BODIES OF THREE TAKEN FROM BAY

Fourth Hunted in Chesapeake by Coast Guard.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 16.—(AP)—Bodies of three men, drowned in turbulent Chesapeake bay during the week end, were recovered today as coast guardsmen searched for a fourth.

The bodies of George R. Gallis, 25, an honor student at Johns Hopkins University, and Conrey Vann Martindale, sales manager for a Philadelphia baking concern, were washed ashore near Aberdeen. Their small sailboat was found stuck in mud flats about a mile away. Both lived in Baltimore.

Earlier, L. M. Hubbard, a fisherman from Rock Hall, found a body believed to be one of two men missing since a cabin cruiser was swamped off Rock Hall Saturday afternoon. It was not identified immediately.

Embargo Opponents Agree To Yield on Credit Clauses

Leaders Also Indicate Intention To Relax Severe Ship Restrictions.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—(AP)—To strengthen their position in the fight for repeal of the arms embargo, administration leaders consented today to strip the neutrality bill of its provisions permitting 90-day credits to belligerent governments.

In addition, the leadership indicated strongly that it soon would be ready with an amendment intended to relax the measure's severe restrictions on the wartime operations of American merchant ships.

Tactical Maneuver.

Separately, or in combination, these concessions involved a tactical maneuver of much significance in the present controversy. A number of senators who favor repealing the embargo are strongly opposed to the credit and shipping provisions of the bill. By meeting their criticism, the leadership felt that it could nail down their votes on the more important embargo question.

Then, too, the leaders hoped that by reducing the points of controversy contained in the bill, much time-consuming debate might be avoided and a final vote correspondingly hastened.

Their earlier predictions that general debate could be finished by the middle of this week appeared, however, to be over-optimistic. Some opposition senators were expecting at least a fortnight more of formal speech-making before the bill could be taken up for amendment.

Speeches Proceed.

The formal speech-making went forward today with, for most of the time, very few senators and a capacity gallery of spectators listening.

Senator Clark, Democrat, Idaho, said the real purpose of repealing the embargo was to help Great Britain and France in their war with Germany. The Allies, he added, by refusing even to consider Hitler's recent offer of peace had become the aggressors in the struggle, and consequently did not deserve American assistance. Repeal, he argued, moreover, was the first step toward American involvement in the war.

Senator Shipstead, Farmer-Labor, Minnesota, asserted that "to repeal the embargo at this time would be directly or indirectly to take sides" in the war. If, he said, "we are going to take sides, let's be above-board about it," and not "do it by subterfuge."

Wants Amendments.

Senator Gillette, Democrat, Iowa, told the senate he would support the bill, if amendments were introduced to close a "loophole through which you could drive a truck." He referred, he said, to amendments forbidding credits to private firms in belligerent countries and to prevent belligerent governments from calling in old securities from their citizens and marketing them in the United States.

Senator Capper, Republican, Kansas, said that "when we lift the arms embargo and start selling war supplies it is almost equivalent to a declaration of war." The way to "stay out of the European war," he added, "is not to take the first step that would lead us into it—repeal of the embargo act."

As introduced by Chairman Pittman of the foreign relations committee, the bill would forbid loans to belligerent nations. However, this section includes a proviso giving Roosevelt discretionary power to permit 90-day, non-renewable credits. It is the latter provision which the administration leaders propose to eliminate.

Credit Provision.

The 90-day credit provision had been assailed as changing the measure from a "cash and carry" bill to a "credit and carry" measure. Many senators, recalling how the Wilson administration first permitted credits and later loans prior to American entry in the first World War, said they feared that the proviso might prove an "opening wedge" for American involvement by a similar series of steps.

Proponents of the provision argued that 90-day terms and cash, when applied to international transactions, were pretty nearly identical. A short space of time had to be allowed, they said, for the settlement of international balances.

Intricate Finance.

Sensors were reporting, however, that these intricacies of international finance were difficult to explain to constituents who had been impressed with the charge that the bill was a "credit and carry" measure.

Then, too, influential senators such as George, Democrat, Georgia; Byrd, Democrat, Virginia, and other Democrats not usually found on the administration side of an important issue have favored repealing the embargo but opposed the credit section.

Although the Pittman amendment went in his general direction, Senator George said it did not entirely satisfy him. He said he wanted a further amendment to

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day. When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headache and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills and successfully by use for over 50 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

arms, ammunition and instruments of war.

Bridges' Proposal.

Senator Bridges, Republican, New Hampshire, proposed an amendment in the form of a preamble to the bill saying that the United States is determined to remain at peace, that the policy of the United States is one of neutrality, and that in pursuance of that policy the risk of American involvement could be reduced by restricting what are ordinarily considered neutral rights.

Senator Ellender, Democrat, Alabama, offered a series of amendments:

To limit extensions of credit to 30 instead of 90 days, or as an alternative, to limit the amount of such credits to $200,000,000 during any 90-day period.

Permit American ships to carry passengers and any goods except in combat areas as outlined by the armaments to any ports not within combat areas as outlined by the President.

So You're Going To Buy a Range?

Don't Leap Before You Look!

Remember!

There's Only ONE Truly Modern Range

—and it's Electric!

HERE'S PROOF!

A short six years ago, one Electric Range was bought to every fifteen of the fuel-type stove that was "tops" in Grandmother's day. Today, the count is one to three. That shows the trend!

Only an Electric Range uses no oxygen—leaves the air fresh and pure!

Only an Electric Range is flameless, smokeless, sootless—free from fumes and objectionable fuel odors!

An Electric Range—which could cook 500 times faster—cooks food as fast as it can be cooked properly, as careful, scientific tests have proved!

Only an Electric Range provides clean, radiant, penetrating heat!

The modern Electric Range cooks with woodstove economy! At new lower electric rates—lowest in our history—it costs but a few cents a day for you to enjoy the finest cooking in the world!

BEFORE YOU BUY ANY RANGE DO THIS

Carefully consider the fact that when you buy a new range you expect to use it for years; and that if you are to get your full dollar's worth out of it, your range must not grow old before its time. It must remain modern. Not only in style, and convenience, but in method!

Today, women with keen eyes for real values are buying Electric Ranges at a faster pace than ever before! Six short years ago one Electric Range was bought to every fifteen of the fuel-type stove that saved the day for Grandmother. Today, the count is one to three! That shows which way the wind blows. That proves the swing is to the modern Electric Range!

Before you buy your new range, thoroughly investigate the modern Electric Range. See why its matchless, natural superiorities—its natural cleanliness, its natural radiant heat, its natural thriftiness—make it the range for you! Get the real facts about the all-round low cost of an Electric Range. Compare it point for point. Then, buy the range your best judgment says buy. It's bound to be Electric!

How To Relieve Itching Skin

Don't scratch and claw itching skin. This tends to irritate and spread inflammation, and is dangerous. Skin itching, when due to scabies, eczema, ringworm, athlete's foot, surface rash, or insect bites, is soothed by applying Tetterine, a quickly palliative preparation that acts with surprising speed to kill every parasite it contacts and your itching goes galloping away. Recommended too for baby's tender skin. Test it for yourself. Get at your dealer's or direct from Shingine Co., Dept. D, Savannah, Ga. (adv.)

Relief At Last For Your Cough

Cremulsion relieves promptly because it goes right to the seat of the trouble to loosen germ-laden phlegm, increase secretion and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes. No matter how many medicines you have tried, let your druggist tell you a bottle of Cremulsion with the understanding that you are to like the way it quickly allays the cough or you are to have your money back.

INDICT MAVERICK ON 15 CHARGES OF POLL TAX ABUSES

Former New Deal Congressman Accused of Conspiring to Pay Taxes of Garment Workers.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Oct. 16.—(P)—A criminal district court grand jury today returned five felony and 10 misdemeanor indictments charging poll tax irregularities against Mayor Maury Maverick, blustery former congressman and New Deal exponent. The one-time leader of a liberal group in the nation's capital was accused jointly with one of his secretaries, Richard Jeffrey; Mrs. Rebecca Taylor, official in a local unit of the International Ladies' Garment Workers Union, and George Glass, also a union official.

The indictments charged conspiracy to pay the poll taxes of five workers in garment manufacturing concerns.

The mayor and Jeffrey made bonds totaling $5,000 each. Maverick, who recently granted permission and gave police protection to a small group of Communists to meet in municipal auditorium only to have an unruly mob charge police lines and stage a riot, said:

"It's just a political smear. It won't stop me a second from continuing to do a good job as mayor."

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 16.—(P)—Shirley Temple, child film star, has agreed to help raise $3,221,720 for the Los Angeles Community Fund. ## MEASURE AIMED AT 'BUG' PASSED

make it "a crime for a grocer to give a customer a teaspoon or for a hostess to give a bridge prize."

Other Actions.
Among other actions, the council:

1. Established a $150 semi-annual license fee for those taking passengers up for hire at the municipal airport. The sum is for two planes of not more than five capacity, with $75 for each additional plane of the same capacity, and $150 for each plane in excess of five-passenger capacity.

2. Sent to the public works committee of council for a public hearing November 7 a petition from the Atlanta unit, Workers Alliance of America, asking that the city, county, state and federal governments move to provide jobs for about 9,000 cut since midsummer from WPA projects. Leaders pointed out that many of their members are in dire distress and need work.

Filed Veto.
3. Filed Mayor Hartsfield's veto to permits allowing the Spur Distributing Company, Inc., and the Power Oil Company, of Macon, to erect filling stations at Hemphill avenue and Fourteenth street. The mayor vetoed the measures when underwriters pointed out that the stations would present a potential danger to large water mains entering the city in that vicinity.

4. Approved a resolution naming Mayor Hartsfield, City Attorney Jack Savage and Councilman J. Frank Beck, chairman of council's sanitary committee, as a committee to negotiate the purchase of a tract on which to erect the city's new 600-ton capacity $500,000 incinerator.

5. Approved the revocation of four beer and wine permits as follows: Leo's place, 25 Forsyth street; Charles E. Smith, 700 Spring street; J. E. Murphy, 313 Boulevard, and William McKool, 307 Fair street. Councilman C. M. Bolen, chairman of the police committee, demanded roll calls when the revocation recommendations were placed before council, and they were approved by comfortable majorities.

Sent to Committee.
6. Sent to the finance committee a resolution by Councilman John A. White, fifth ward, providing that the cost of repairing sidewalks, driveways and curbs be paid from the city treasury instead of by property owners. White advocated finance committee action, saying he wants to provide $3,000 for each of the city's six wards. He told finance committee members to "bring that paper back to this council at the next meeting."

7. Thanked Alderman Drennon and Councilmen Haire and Wilson members of the sixth ward delegation, for a dinner party given members of council last Thursday night.

The only lightship ever sunk in war was famous Diamond Shoals lightship, off Hatteras, N. C. A German submarine sank the boat by gunfire and the crew rowed 15 miles over the boiling shoals waters to the Cape.

IF ALL Garden NOTES

FLETCHER PEARSON CROWN

As most of you know who have attended your Garden Club meeting recently, we are to have another fall garden school at the Atlanta Woman's Club on October 24, 25 and 26. I will try to tell you the things which I feel will do you the most good at this time of the year. However, during the three days it will not be possible to tell you everything which should be told during the fall months. I will write some of these things from day to day in my Fall Garden Notes. Then if you will attend my three classes you will find yourself reminded of the things which are best done during the next few weeks.

This is a splendid time of year to make any drastic changes in the plan of your garden. Or if you have been so unwise as to garden without a plan now is the best time to first make a plan on paper, then to remake your beds, not from the "ground up," but rather from two feet under the surface of the ground and up. The secret of good gardening lies deeply hidden in well prepared soil. Impatient gardeners sometimes feel that this is quite unnecessary and they disregard this fundamental fact, and fail. Sometimes it takes many failures to convince them of their mistake and to make them willing to put so much effort where it apparently does not show. You will never again have such strenuous soil preparation to make, but no garden is ever finished, and all flower beds need to be remade every two or three years. Do not try to remake the entire garden at one time, but by taking a small part, one or two flower beds each fall, it will be very simple to keep the entire garden in an excellent condition. Since humus is one of the greatest needs of all gardens and since leaves that have fallen in the autumn is the most economical way in which to obtain humus, tomorrow I shall talk a bit about composting these fallen leaves to add to your soil.

Miss Burruss, Fiance Honored at Dinner

Slimming Can Be an All-Day Job If You Watch Yourself

A main dish salad, cleverly combining this salmon-macaroni. A bowl lined with lettuce or endive provides the setting.

A Main-Dish Salad Is Designed to Satisfy

By Sally Saver.

Cleverly incorporating all the required elements—food value, eye-appeal and economy—this salmon-macaroni salad is destined for an important place in fall and winter meal planning. These main-dish salads, like the appetites they are designed to satisfy, take on hearty, substantial proportions when chilly winds blow. When they can do this with economy they are received with delight by the woman who is guardian of the food budget.

Salmon-macaroni salad is made according to the following recipe:

- Salmon-Macaroni Salad.
- 1 pound can salmon
  - 2 cups cooked elbow macaroni
  - 1 cup celery, chopped
  - 2 tablespoons green pepper, chopped
  - 2 hard-cooked eggs, sliced
  - 3/4 cup mayonnaise or salad dressing
  - 1/2 cup stuffed olives, sliced
- Cook macaroni in boiling salted water, drain and chill. Chill other ingredients. Combine flaked salmon, macaroni, celery, green pepper, one sliced egg and the mayonnaise or dressing. Place in bowl lined with lettuce or endive or a combination of the two greens, and garnish with the remaining egg sliced, and the sliced stuffed olives.
- A fruit dessert, hot rolls and coffee would complete a meal. This salad would be a grand choice for a buffet supper.

Bolero-Jumper Style—Kiddies' Favorite

By Lillian Mae.

Schooltime means jumper-time in kindergarten. And when a bolero goes with it—like Lillian Mae's Pattern 4210—that's combination no wise mother can resist! The jumper has just two easy pattern parts, excluding the pockets. It may open all down the front or simply be button-trimmed. Aren't those scalloped, wide straps enchanting? The lace or bow-trimmed blouse has a round collar and puffed sleeves. Add the jaunty bolero for a finishing touch. You may use wool or spun rayon for a school style; then, for party wear, stitch up a taffeta jumper.

Pattern 4210 is available in children's sizes 4, 6, 8, 10 and 12. Size 6 jumper, takes 1 1/2 yards 54-inch fabric; blouse, 3/4 yard 35-inch fabric; jumper and bolero, 2 1/2 yards 35-inch fabric.

True Purpose of The Tonsil Not Known

By Dr. William Brady.

Masses of lymphoid, round cell, adenoid tissue situated on either side of the soft palate near the base of the tongue are called the faucial or throat tonsils. A third mass of the same tissue in the roof of the pharynx up out of sight behind the soft palate is called the pharyngeal tonsil or adenoid body.

Nearly always when the visible faucial tonsils are enlarged (hypertrophied, as doctors say) the pharyngeal tonsil is likewise enlarged or hypertrophied.

Considerable hypertrophy of faucial and pharyngeal tonsil tissue, and of the same type of tissue elsewhere in the body—as, for example, around the opening from the cecum or large bowel into the appendix—is a normal, beneficial condition in childhood and early youth. The lymphoid tissue plays a role in the natural defense of the body against bacterial invaders and probably in the development of natural immunity.

More enlargement, thickening or hypertrophy of lymphoid tissue in the tonsils or adenoid body in childhood need occasion no anxiety nor call for any treatment as long as the child suffers no injury, harm or handicap from purely mechanical obstruction to breathing; or no impairment of hearing from mechanical obstruction or occlusion of the orifices of the Eustachian tubes in the throat; or no evident retardation or interference with normal growth and development (from anoxia or deficient oxygenation incident to difficult breathing).

As I have said many times, it is in every instance a matter of your doctor's opinion whether your complaint is likely to be due to focal infection, and whether the septic focus responsible for the trouble is situated in a tonsil. There is no positive way to determine this. It is wholly a question of your doctor's best judgment.

Some pathologists who have studied the tonsils thoroughly conclude it is difficult to draw the line between normal and infected tonsils. For instance, Dr. H. F. Wilkinson reported in Archives of Otolaryngology all of 10,000 pairs of tonsils showed evidence of infection, if the presence of leukocytes in the crypts and ulceration of the epithelium are an indication of infection.

Unfortunately no one knows precisely what function or what purpose the tonsils serve. Of course the near-doctors and the queer-doctors will speak quite positively about it, but I repeat no one knows whether lymphoid, adenoid or round-cell tissue in the tonsils and elsewhere in the body merely functions in the defense against invading germs and in maintaining immunity, or whether it may also have some influence on growth and development.

Lymphoid hypertrophy (thickening or enlargement of tonsils and adenoids) is one of the distinctive features of allergy. The very largest of chronically enlarged tonsils are often seen in children who suffer from allergy—hypersensitivity states or foreign protein (nitrogenous substance entering the system through some route other than normal digestion), most commonly one or more food proteins.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Menopause.
I am 47 and just reaching the critical. (Mrs. M. H.)
Answer—Rather say the physiological cessation of a function. Send stamped envelope bearing your address and ask for monograph on Menopause.

First Aid.
What do you advise carrying in the car as a first aid outfit—we are touring about three thousand miles in two weeks. (Mrs. C. F.)

Answer—Send stamped envelope bearing your address and ask for instructions for preparing and using pocket emergency kit.

Third: She should regard her husband's drinking as a disease which he can't cure (he will never admit this) and teach her children to do the same. Allways she should hold up to them whatever is admirable in his character, teach them to love him for his generosity and sympathy with them. Their attitude toward him will be patterned after hers. They will praise or blame him as she does. They will have no more pity for him than she has.

Fourth: For the sake of all concerned, she should maintain her dignity, refuse to brand her husband as a drunkard before her family or friends, keep her chin up, her lips closed and by her very silence forbid outsiders to mention the subject to her.

Yes, this is bitter medicine for a wife to take but if she swallows it she may have the satisfaction of doing something about the unhappy circumstances in her life that might otherwise destroy her home. And even though the husband continues to tipple, she has salvaged enough to make life worth living.

MY DAY People Are Fooled By Their Leaders

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

HYDE PARK.—We came up the Hudson river yesterday and, even out of the train windows, the colors of the trees were marvelous to see. Later in the day, we drove over to Lenox, Mass., where the Democratic Women's Club held a non-partisan gathering. Many people asked me how I liked the Berkshires. They seemed to forget that I lived near enough to them to have known them quite well in the past, particularly during the years when our boys were in school in Groton, Mass. We used to try every new road when we drove over once a term, which was all the visiting the rector smiled upon. He always felt that intercourse between parents and boys during the school term was a little distracting to concentration on school interests.

I sat beside the district attorney for the western part of the state of Massachusetts at dinner last night. He told me that no matter where he traveled, he always returned with joy to his New England countryside and even preferred the climate. If he were told that never could he travel, he would still prefer this part of the country for year-round living. I can understand this, for I feel as he does, that every season here has its particular beauties and that the sharp contrasts which we have in New England accentuate these beauties.

I know people in many other parts of the country wonder how we can stand up under such changes of climate—our snow, our rain and our wind and cold. I suppose it is all a question of to what you are accustomed. What you grow up with in your youth probably gets into your blood and remains a preference no matter what you do the rest of your life.

When I read of the sinking of a great battleship yesterday afternoon and that this morning's papers in confirming the disaster only spoke of some three or four hundred saved, I could not help but rage inwardly at the senselessness of it all. When we drove past a railroad station yesterday, I saw a group of our own very young boys in uniform getting out of a car to take the train, and I thought that on that battleship several hundred boys about that age had probably gone to their deaths quite unnecessarily. Something in your heart and head rebels against such senseless sacrifice, and yet the people of each of the warring nations are doing their duty as they see it and obeying their leaders.

They are being patriotic. The people of each nation think their own leaders want peace, but the rest of the world wants war. At least, every leader is telling his people that. Only we, who are on the outside, can evaluate today how people are people are being taken in and try to study how a method can be evolved whereby in the future leaders cannot fool their people. The fat is in the fire now for a great many people, but there is a future, we hope, in which I pray that we may profit by the things which we are watching open up as a panorama before us in the world. Will we ever learn to use reason instead of force in the world, and will people ever be wise enough to refuse to follow bad leaders or to take away the freedom of other people?

"G. W. T. W." Role Cut Because It's Too Good!

By Sheila Graham.

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 16.—Barbara Stanwyck taking camera tests at the Metro screen factory.

BARBARA STANWYCK

Does this mean she will make that long-planned picture with Robert Taylor? Paramount wanted W. C. Fields to pose for pictures with Baby, now Lonnie Leroy—a la the Chaplin-Coogan photographs when the grown-up Coogan held the tiny Chaplin in his arms—remember? But Fields refused. Said he didn't like Leroy when he was a baby—and saw no reason to get chummy with him now. Fie, Mr. Fields! . . . Paulette Goddard, by the way, says not to expect the Chaplin picture for another five months. Isn't she being a little optimistic? . . . Whatever happened to the screen career of Virginia Bruce? I asked about her at her studio, and someone echoed "Virginia Bruce" as though he had never heard of the lady.

George Raft will not sign to make another picture unless a part is written in for his body-guard, Mack Grey. George says, "Mack" has learned everything about acting from me, and now the guy can stand on his own feet." I wonder. . . . It was rather funny at a recent premiere to hear Hedy Lamarr tell husband Gene Markey how to get the best face angle for the cameraman who was snapping him. Hedy tells me she considers Gene the best-dressed man in Hollywood, and "He is so gentle and sophisticated."

When Melvyn Douglas was asked, "What is it like to kiss Greta Garbo?" he replied—"Please let me remain a gentleman—even if I am an actor!" By the way, don't forget to see "Ninotchka." It's the best yet for Garbo, Douglas, and Ernst Lubitsch.

The Melanie role in "Gone With the Wind" has been trimmed. It was so good—it almost stole the whole show. But there is still enough left to prove Olivia de Havilland's claim for better picture material. . . . Adolphe Menjou has put his house on the market for the asking price of $50,000. To prospective buyers—the place has five fireplaces, and five bathrooms—makes a rate of $5,000 per . . . Greer Garson receives $1,000 weekly, but she is still paying the enormous bills incurred when she was sick last year. The start on "Susan and God" has been delayed somewhat to straighten out the religious angle involved. According to the Hays office, all religious beliefs—including Buchmanism—must be treated with respect on the screen.

Discipline for Hip Muscles Tends to Flatten Tummy

By Ida Jean Kain.

Some women exercise faithfully for 10 to 15 minutes a day and then spend the next 10 to 15 hours undoing the good work. They are the ones who complain that it takes such a long time to get results with exercise!

Whether you stop to think about it or not, every move you make is exercise. When you continually move wrong, it stands to reason that you are not doing your figure any good. That stingy little workout you allot yourself does well to keep your figure from getting worse!

Let's check your entire program and make sure that you are not doing something all day long which entirely nullifies your exercise. Probably you are concentrating more or less on exercises to slim the hips and back and kicking is marvelously slimming for the hips.

But after you have kicked your 50 to 150 counts, then what? Perhaps you think those fine, strong muscles were merely intended as a nice padding for your hips! If so, they quickly go limp and flaccid and the hips seem to trail out behind as you walk, making the hips appear much larger than it actually is. Every waking minute, except for the intervals in which you purposely relax, those muscles are supposed to be working. They should maintain enough contraction to hold the buttocks tightly together with a slight tuck-under of the coccyx.

Until your hip muscles become accustomed to doing their share of the work, you will have to discipline them occasionally. Every so often, do this:

Stand with the feet parallel and about six inches apart. Let the hips jut out in back. Try to see how bad you can make your hips. Now, keep the knees perfectly straight and still and pull up with the front thigh muscles—this is so you won't push yourself too far forward when you begin working the muscles on the back of the hip. All right. Now draw the hips together, hard! That doesn't mean fast. Take your time and do it slowly and accurately. Finally, tuck the hips under. You should be able to walk with the hips held together and under.

One good thing leads to another, and this discipline tends to flatten the tummy. You can't tuck the coccyx under without pulling up with the lower abdominal muscles—and that's something else you should do all the time, not just for a few minutes a day. That's what those muscles are for. Just one more measurement—the waistline. All your twisting and bending will avail you nothing if you slump the rest of the day. You can get waistline exercise every minute by stretching up with the trunk muscles. Don't be tense about it, but just see how much you can elongate the line from the ribcage to the hips. Incidentally, that upstretch through the midriff gives you a much better bust contour.

The things that make your figure look good are for your figure. Keep that in mind and you'll make some headway with your program.

Write to Miss Kain, in care of The Atlanta Constitution, for the leaflet, "Posture Makes the Figure," and turn slimming into an all-day affair. Enclose a stamped envelope with your address.

Person With Correct Answer Receives "Key to Contract"

By Harold Sharpsteen.

Judging from the combined honor-trick strength in the North and South hands below, game should be made by the two players in some contract. Or should it? Using the straight Culbertson system with both sides vulnerable, and West the dealer, can the North and South players arrive at a game contract or should they be content with a part score?

WIN A PRIZE.
Examine the holdings in the complete deal and bid each hand as you believe it should be bid. Then, when you have arrived at your final contract, whatever it may be, play the hand through at double-dummy and see if you are able to fulfill your contract against any defense by the opposing players.

You have until next Saturday midnight to submit your final complete bidding and play of this hand and those submitting the correct answers will receive the latest edition of Harold Sharpsteen's "Key to Contract," without cost.

SOLUTION SUNDAY.
The correct bidding and play of the hand will appear in next Sunday's paper, so be sure to get your solution in the mail not later than Saturday midnight.

There is nothing tricky about this hand, either in the bidding or the play, but it does serve to test your skill in both departments of the game.

Hand:
N—S 8 8 4 3
H—10 6 4
D—A J 4
C—8 3

Hand:
S—J 10 7 5 2
H—8 7
D—10 6
C—A J 9 7 2

Hand:
S—A K
H—A K 5 2
D—Q 8 5
C—K Q 6 4

Remember, West is the dealer. Both sides are vulnerable. Should West open the bidding or pass? That is your first problem to solve for the remainder of the bidding sequence may hinge on just what you decide the dealer should do with his hand.

Mail your solution to Harold Sharpsteen, editor of The Constitution. 'Til tomorrow.

Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Robert Jr. Wire Novel Invitations for Breakfast

By Sally Forth.

INVITATIONS by wire was the novel method employed by "Chip" and Evie Robert, of Washington and Atlanta, for a football breakfast at which they will be hosts on Saturday at the Piedmont Driving Club. The affair will precede the Tech-Vanderbilt game, and this fact alone will gear society's interest into a festive and enthusiastic mood.

Prominent Atlantans will gather for the affair, as well as a number of out-of-town guests, for the Vanderbilt game is always a drawing card for sports-loving southerners. And the highways leading into Atlanta on this auspicious date are lined with cars filled with football fans.

Invitations to the affair read as follows: "We hope that you can honor us by your presence at a breakfast party Saturday, October 21, at 11:30 o'clock noon at the Piedmont Driving Club, before the Vanderbilt-Georgia Tech game. In answering please address us at the Biltmore hotel. We will be looking forward with great pleasure to seeing you. The L. W. Robert Jr."

Sally is informed that "Chip" arrives in the city tomorrow, to be followed on Thursday by Evie, the popular pair to spend the week end here before returning to the national capital.

THE arrival last Sunday in Athens of little Susan Spalding
White to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James White Jr., is of affectionate interest to their Atlanta friends and relatives. The baby is the namesake of Mrs. William F. Spalding, her maternal grandmother, and her paternal grandmother is Mrs. James White, of Athens. When little Susan is taken from St. Mary's hospital to her Prince avenue home in the Classic City, she will occupy the flesh-tinted nursery beautified with flesh-colored quilted chintz draperies and blue quilted chintz cornices. The blue crib is decorated in figures of little children and nursery rhymes are lettered on the sides. A blue carpet accentuates the blue motif in the lovely room which is in readiness to receive little Susan.

Telegrams galore welcomed the baby upon this mundane sphere.
Her maternal aunt, Anne Spalding, who lives in New York, telegraphed, "My heart is full of joy over the arrival of my first niece." Congratulatory telegrams were sent by "Uncle Bill" and Aunt Ethel, who are Mr. and Mrs. William F. Spalding, of Rye, N. Y., and Mrs. Fred Rahr, the

the game. . . . Shorter and Caroline Peckinpaugh, who came back to their alma mater.
... Ham Lokey and his attractive blonde date "grabbing a bite to eat" before the kick-off. . . . Hoke Smith and his date, Frances Peace, marching in the senior parade between halves. . . . Frances Sisson and Sam Mayer chatting with friends over dinner after the game. . . . J. L. and Jerry Rivers Mangham receiving belated congratulations from several of their many friends after the dance.
... Helen Mergendoller attending the game wearing a beige wool frock with brown accessories. . . .
Dan Franklin alighting from his car in front of an Athens restaurant. . . . A congenial group enjoying the perfect fall weather
Sunday by walking included
Sarah Horn, Dick Smith, Joyce and Jack Boykin, Henrietta Collier and Jim Franklin. . . . Frances Sprattlin and Haines Hargrett, accompanied by the Sprattlin's dog, "Doodlebug," strolling down
Habersham road. . . . Mrs. Oliver
Healey wearing a stunning cerise wool suit with a matching hat at the Tech-Howard football game.

ly attired in a black wool suit offset by silver fox furs. . . . Jane an animated conversation during a background for floor baskets and altar vases filled with white chrysanthemums. Cathedral candelabra held lighted tapers and completed the decorations.

The bride entered with her father, Andrew Carroll Burkett, and they were met at the altar by the costume and a gold ring, which belonged to the groom's great-grandmother, and has been worn by all the brides in the family. She wore a shoulder bouquet of bronze orchids.

Mrs. Annie W. Hay, grandmother of the bride, wore a moss green dress. A matching hat and a shoulder bouquet. Johanna Hill roses completed her costume. Mrs.
I. E. Burkett, grandmother of the bride, chose for the occasion a black brocaded crepe dress and matching hat, with which she wore matching accessories and a shoulder spray of red roses.

The groom's mother, Mrs. M. R.
Ansley, wore a grape wine dress with matching hat and a shoulder bouquet of talisman roses.

Following the ceremony the bride's father entertained the wedding party and out-of-town guests at a reception at his home on Mc-

Women's Pain Relieved By "Build-Up" Method

A simple method is bringing relief to women who formerly suffered from functional dysmenorrhea due to malnutrition. This common trouble of women and its headaches, nervousness, irritability, restlessness or those cramp-like, intermittent pains, is often due to a weak, run-down, undernourished condition. That's why the first step for relief consists of restoring energy, strength and nerve-force. Thousands of women and girls are finding this may be accomplished with the help of the time-tested product—CARDUI.

Principal source of CARDUI's help in building up and strengthening women and girls is its effectiveness as a stimulator of lagging appetite and as an aid to digestion and assimilation. CARDUI, say many women, when taken just before and during "the time" helps relieve the pain. (adv.)

CITIZENSHIP A DUTY, SAYS KIWANIS CHIEF

Bennett O. Knudson Warns of Shifting of Responsibilities.

SEA ISLAND, Ga., Oct. 16.—(AP)—Americans were called upon tonight by Bennett O. Knudson, Kiwanis international president, to accept the responsibilities of citizenship and solve its problems lest they be solved "by un-American organizations and foreign controlled groups."

In an address before the Georgia district Kiwanis convention, Knudson listed expenditure of public money, youth, aliens, social questions, neutrality and the maintenance of democracy by education as among challenging current problems.

He said Europeans now in the grip of dictator governments had lost their freedom not by simple choice but because they did not know what to do about issues and problems created by modern conditions and science.

"Fate May Overtake Us." He suggested the same fate might overtake this country if "we shift responsibilities." Pleading that this not be allowed to happen, he asserted:

"Service is the rent we pay for the space that we occupy on this earth."

Forest Conservation. Director W. C. Hammerle, of the State Division of Forestry, outlined today three major steps he said were "necessary for the conservation of the state's forest resources."

He told the Kiwanis convention these were: (1) Adequate forest fire prevention and control; (2) reforestation of cutover and burned, non-producing lands and of idle and abandoned farm lands, and (3) application of sound forest management practices on the second growth and mature timber lands.

Kiwanians were urged by Mark A. Smith, of Thomaston, international trustee, to strive for service as "the very essence of friendship."

District Governor Hamilton T. Holt, of Macon, charged member Kiwanians with responsibility for individual community service and deplored the "pitifully small number... actually marching in the parade."

SURGEONS APPROVE TWO CANCER CLINICS

Baptist, Emory Units Among Those Indorsed by American College.

The cancer clinics at Georgia Baptist and Emory hospitals were among the 307 units of general hospitals in the United States and Canada which were placed upon an approved list Sunday by the American College of Surgeons meeting in Philadelphia.

Stierli Cancer Clinic's College's approved list as a cancer hospital, one of the few in the nation to be placed under that classification.

Approval of a clinic or hospital means that the College, the leading surgical organization in the western hemisphere, has inspected them and found all equipped to give the latest and best service in cancer treatment.

The clinics at Georgia Baptist and Emory, the only two in Atlanta, had been on the College's annual list since their institution several years ago.

All but seven states in the nation now have approved cancer clinics.

Before the surgical group passes approval, the clinic must be able to handle surgery, X-rays, and radium treatments, and the availability of consultants in all other fields of medicine which touch on cancer and its diagnosis.

MERCER CHEMIST DIES AS HE DRIVES

MACON, Ga., Oct. 16.—(AP)—Dr. Burt P. Richardson, head of the chemistry department of Mercer university since 1923, died of a heart attack this afternoon as he drove his automobile on a country road near Macon.

Dr. Richardson, born in Clinton, Ind., had earned at least five degrees, according to records available at Mercer. He was awarded the bachelor of pedagogy degree at Teachers' College, Warrensburg, Mo., and soon afterwards earned his bachelor of science degree from Drury College, Springfield, Mo.

The University of Chicago conferred the bachelor of philosophy degree. Dr. Richardson then went abroad to study further and received his master of arts degree from the University of Leipzig in Germany, where he later earned his doctor of philosophy award.

A member of the American Chemical Society, Dr. Richardson had taught at seven colleges before coming to Mercer.

Cut in Cotton Storage Rate Is Pushed Despite Protests

Commodity Credit Corporation, Over Objections of Southern Congressmen Led by Pace, Says Reduction Will Be Made Today.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—(AP)—Over the objections of southern congressmen, the Commodity Credit Corporation proceeded today with a plan to cut the storage rate on loan cotton to 12 1-2 cents a month per bale.

A score of house members, called into session by Representative Pace, Democrat, Georgia, adopted a resolution this morning asking the corporation to fix the maximum—temporarily at least—at 15 cents.

Nevertheless, officials said this afternoon the reduction would take effect tomorrow on terms the corporation announced 10 days ago.

At that time, warehousemen were sent new storage contracts which specified a rate of not more than 12 1-2 cents. Heretofore paid 16 to 25 cents, operators of inland warehouses complained, many of them declaring high insurance charges on the lint made it impossible for them to continue in business at so low a storage rate.

Commodity Credit officials, meeting with the congressional group, asserted rates of 9 to 10 cents were available to the government in some southern cotton ports and interior terminal markets. They said borrowing farmers were entitled to reduced storage charges. The saving to be effected by the order was estimated at $10,000,000 annually.

The new government now holds title to about 6,840,000 bales of cotton taken as collateral on crop loans. This amount passed into federal ownership last summer when past due loans were foreclosed. Title to 4,400,000 bales still is vested with farmers.

In the same resolution, which protested against the 12 1-2 cent storage rate, the congressmen authorized appointment of a three-member committee to work with the Commodity Corporation in negotiating for lower insurance rates.

Pace and others declared some warehousemen paid 8 1-2 cents a month for insurance, leaving a bare four cents of the new rate for other expenses. They said efforts to obtain cheaper insurance should have been started long ago, and that the corporation itself might take over the insurance system.

Recall Negotiations. Members of the group recalled that negotiations with insurance companies and a threat of the corporation's taking over the loan policies resulted in a sharp reduction in corn insurance rates.

Some congressmen denied the reduced storage allowance would necessarily result in a saving to the farmer. They said the cost of shipping the cotton from a displaced warehouse to a port house and back again to the mill area might more than offset the saving in storage.

Representative Jones, Democrat, Texas, chairman of the house agriculture committee, urged steps looking to lower rates both for insurance and storage. Representative Brown, Democrat, Georgia, warned a rate less than 15 cents, with an insurance rate reduction, would be unfair, "and congress won't stand for it."

Representative Poage, Democrat, Texas, declared the reduction would cause a trend toward monopolistic control of the warehouse business by big operators. He said the big warehouses were given insurance rates far lower than those paid by smaller ones.

Pace later announced Representatives Fulmer, Democrat, South Carolina; Poage and Allen, Democrat, Louisiana, would serve with him on the committee to negotiate for lower insurance rates.

LIMITS ON SPECULATION CALLED "VERY UNWISE" NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 16.—(AP)—A committee from the New Orleans cotton exchange and a private cotton merchant today called "unnecessary" and "very unwise" the establishment of limits on speculative trading in cotton futures.

They appeared at a public hearing presided over by J. M. Mehl, assistant chief of the Commodity Exchange Administration. Also present was Dr. J. W. T. Duvel, chief of the administration.

The limits on speculative transactions in cotton futures are provided in section 4-A of the commodity exchange act, allowing the administration to fix the limit on the amount of speculative trading which may be done by one person.

They appeared at a public hearing presided over by J. M. Mehl, assistant chief of the Commodity Exchange Administration. Also present was Dr. J. W. T. Duvel, chief of the administration.

First of the 1939-40 series of reports of the citizens' fact-finding committee were given yesterday in three Georgia public forums. At Decatur Miss Emily Woodward spoke on "Can We Help Our Democracy?" Dr. George Sparks, of the University of Georgia Evening College, discussed "Education Down to Brass Tacks" at Cordele, and Dr. M. D. Collins, state superintendent of schools, chose "Education Marches Forward in Georgia" as his subject for an address at Douglasville.

Ralph L. Ramsey, secretary of the Georgia Education Association, will be principal speaker tonight at the Bell "Y" Club meeting at 37 Auburn avenue. Supper will be served at 6 o'clock and music will be presented by Mrs. J. T. Farnborough and Earl Landers, accompanied by Gordon Moore.

Included in the series of Georgia public forums for this week will be an address Thursday at Thomasville by Commissioner Lon Sullivan, of the Georgia Department of Public Safety, on "Help Save Human Lives." The talk is scheduled for 8 o'clock at the courthouse. On Friday Dr. Karl Drew Hartzell, associate professor of economics and social science at Georgia Tech, will speak at the Augusta Medical College on "The Foreign Situation." Time is 8:30 o'clock.

New American flag will be flown from the flagpole at Five Points today. The Atlanta Post No. 1 of the American Legion has purchased the flag and will have a flag-raising ceremony at 9 o'clock this morning. William G. McRae, commander of the post, will have charge.

Judge Jesse M. Wood, of Fulton criminal court, will address East Point Lodge No. 288, F. & A. M., at 7:30 o'clock tonight at the lodge hall. The meeting will mark the lodge's 66th birthday anniversary.

NEW RECORD IS SET BY BANK CLEARINGS Bank clearings in Atlanta yesterday were the largest in the history of the Clearing House Association, totaling $21,600,000. Previously the record was $20,500,000 recorded on October 19, 1925.

Largest clearings for a single day this year, had until yesterday, been $17,900,000 on April 15. The largest gain for a single day this year over the corresponding day last year was $10,300,000, July 5, following the Fourth of July holiday.

Clearings a year ago yesterday were $14,300,000.

CHINESE CUT OFF WALLED HANGCHOW

Storm City After All-Night Attack, Kill Numerous Japanese.

CHUNGKING, Oct. 16.—(AP)—Chinese army sources reported today Chinese forces had stormed into the walled city of Hangchow, only 90 miles southwest of Shanghai; killed numerous Japanese soldiers; destroyed the power plant, and set fire to an ammunition dump and the headquarters of the Japanese puppet regime.

The city, capital of Chekiang province, was thrown into confusion, the Chinese asserted, with explosions from the ammunition dump spreading a conflagration while soldiers fought in the streets.

Storming the city Sunday after an all-night attack, the Chinese were reported to have cut off communication with Shanghai by tearing up railroad tracks east and west of Hangchow and dynamiting three railroad bridges, establishing Chinese control of the surrounding countryside.

Hangchow, just southwest of Shanghai, was taken by the Japanese on Christmas Eve, 1937, but there have been periodic guerrilla raids in the surrounding country.

DIES PROBES SEEK EXTENSION TO 1941

Want Time To Follow Up Leads That 'International Situation' Affords.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—(AP)—The Dies committee, asserting that "the international situation" had provided it with "hundreds of important leads," announced today that it would ask authority for another year of hearings on un-American activities.

The committee's power to hold investigations expires January 3, 1940. The house will be asked at the present special session of congress to extend the authority to January 3, 1941.

In a stormy session that shook the crystal chandeliers of the house caucus room, the committee examined two high-ranking Communists today as to their party's connections with the International Labor Defense and the International Workers Order.

Both Anna Damon, executive secretary of the ILO, and Max Bechdel, general secretary of the IWO, aroused the ire of the committee with accusations of unfairness and impelled Chairman Dies, Democrat, Texas, to gavel them down repeatedly as they attempted to volunteer statements.

As for actual testimony that would link the two organizations with the Communist party, the committee drew information that officials of the groups were party members, but made little headway when it tried to get the witnesses to acknowledge various articles in the Daily Worker, party newspaper, which indicated the alliance.

At least three persons were injured, one seriously.

It was the second railway wreck attributed to the blackout in England. Four persons were killed in a wreck at Bletchley Friday night.

MISS GRAY'S DEATH IS TERMED SUICIDE

Funeral services were arranged tentatively for tomorrow in Augusta, her family home.

Miss Gray is survived by her mother, Mrs. Thomas S. Gray Sr., of Augusta; two brothers, Thomas S. Gray Jr., of Atlanta, and Herbert C. Gray, of Washington, D. C., and two sisters, Mrs. E. P. Gilbert and Miss Anna Gray, of Augusta.

Want Time To Follow Up Leads That 'International Situation' Affords.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—(AP)—The Dies committee, asserting that "the international situation" had provided it with "hundreds of important leads," announced today that it would ask authority for another year of hearings on un-American activities.

The committee's power to hold investigations expires January 3, 1940. The house will be asked at the present special session of congress to extend the authority to January 3, 1941.

In a stormy session that shook the crystal chandeliers of the house caucus room, the committee examined two high-ranking Communists today as to their party's connections with the International Labor Defense and the International Workers Order.

Both Anna Damon, executive secretary of the ILO, and Max Bechdel, general secretary of the IWO, aroused the ire of the committee with accusations of unfairness and impelled Chairman Dies, Democrat, Texas, to gavel them down repeatedly as they attempted to volunteer statements.

As for actual testimony that would link the two organizations with the Communist party, the committee drew information that officials of the groups were party members, but made little headway when it tried to get the witnesses to acknowledge various articles in the Daily Worker, party

BOND ISSUES GAIN IN QUIET DEALINGS

Recovery of Low-Yield Loans Credited to Continuing Peace Talk.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—(AP)—Quiet buying of United States government bonds accounted for an impressive market today.

The Federal Reserve Bank, speeding up the October rebound from the previous month's war selling, had several closing advances ranging from 1-2 to 15-16 of a point.

Supplementing the market support of United States government bonds during the September break was the announcement today that September net purchases for Treasury investment accounts totaled $71,904,950, compared with $38,500,000 in the same month last year.

Traders associated the further recovery in low yield issues with more widespread optimism was dampened a little in the day by reports indicating Germany was preparing to launch a real offensive on the western front.

Bonds of nations in the disturbed Baltic area were supplied at lower prices, but those of the larger European powers were generally inclined to improvement.

BURST OF BUYING LIFTS GRAIN PRICES

Rally Attracts Selling, However, and Wheat Drifts Remainder of Session.

CHICAGO, Oct. 16.—(AP)—A brief burst of buying lifted wheat prices about 2 cents a bushel during the first half hour of trading today, but the market soon quieted down and drifted through the remainder of an otherwise dull session.

For about 15 minutes after the opening, wheat prices fluctuated lower, with losses reaching 1-2 cents. Buying credited to a local commission house disclosed a fact that the pit was temporarily void of sufficient selling orders to satisfy demand and prices rose quickly.

Brokers said the buying apparently was based on continued dry weather over the southwest and reports of a naval battle in the North Sea and attacks on Scottish coastal defenses.

The session's highs attracted profit-taking and increased selling, however, as prices fluctuated nervously during the remaining three hours of trade.

Wheat closed 7-8 to 11-4 higher than Saturday. Oats and rye followed wheat to some extent, but corn closed 1-8 to 5-8 up; rye 1-4 to 5-8 up; soy beans 1-5 to 2-1/2 higher, and land 5 to 8 advanced.

Wheat export business amounted to 750,000 bushels of Canadian, 350,000 bushels of Russian, 350,000 bushels of corn were sold to Germany while Rumania has shipped 7,000,000 bushels of corn to the Reich.

PILOT'S WIFE RISKS LIFE TO SAVE PET DOG

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 16.—(AP) Sister, a black Pekinese, owes her life today to the bravery of her mistress, Mrs. Fred Lanier, pretty young wife of an air line (Southern) pilot.

Returning from a shopping trip, Mrs. Lanier discovered her home ablaze. She darted into the burning house and carried the dog to safety. Another pet, a bulldog, died in the flames. Mrs. Lanier suffered minor injuries.

There are no mahogany forests. Men who search tropical jungles for the wood consider themselves lucky to find land where there are as many as two mahogany trees to the acre.
